Many New Charges Face East Peacemakers

Both Israel And Jordan Are Tense

Border Trouble More Serious

Jerusalem, Nov. 7 (AP)—A new shower of charges of violations of the Palestine armistice confronted peacemakers today in the troubled Middle East.

They included an Israeli declaration that Egyptian troops were entrenched in the demilitarized zone of the Egyptian Sinai, "constituting a longstanding violation and a threat to civilian life."

An Israeli foreign office spokesman said "Israel is fully aware of the presence of Egyptian troops" in the zone, opposite the scene of last week's bloody El Sabha clash.

THE SPOKESMAN said "prohibited numbers" of troops were in the area where the armistice agreement permits only three Egyptian checkposts with a total of 30 soldiers.

Israel also accused Egypt of a new raid near the Gaza strip.

Other claims and counterclaims were exchanged by Jordan and Israel.

Jordan charged Israel with five fresh armistice violations and the Israelis countered with claim that Jordan troops dynamited two houses in a border village near Kfar Saba in Central Israel.

The Israeli-Jordan mixed armistice commission met last night to take up the dynamiting charge. The Israeli delegate said his government takes "a most serious view of this attack . . . any repetition of such incidents is liable to have serious repercussions."

Maj. Gen. Edson L. M. Burns, U. N. truce supervisor, returned from conferences in New York and London on the tense border situation.

HE CONFERRED immediately with truce organization officials and called for meetings with Israeli and Arab representatives on the latest UN proposal to ease border tensions.

Put forward by UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, the proposal is reported to call for troop withdrawals from the El Aujanizana demilitarized zone, where the El Sabha clash occurred, and for clear marking of the area along Egypt's border.

Albert Grand, truce organization spokesman, said a new reply had been received from Egypt on the cease-fire appeal but he did not disclose its contents. Egypt's original reply to the Nov. 3 appeal had been regarded as vague.

Tito Puts Force Behind Freedom for Satellites

Brioni, Yugoslavia, Nov. 7 (AP)—Marshall Tito put his weight today behind the West's demand that Soviet-found satellite states of eastern Europe be given their independence and freedom of action.

As a leading statesman in the Balkans, he apparently has been asked also to use his influence for peace between Israel and the Arab states during a trip he is planning to Egypt.

THESE WERE the highlights of a seven-hour talk yesterday between the president of Communist Yugoslavia and U. S. Secretary of State Dulles in the dramatic setting of Tito's Adriatic island retreat.

Tito took Dulles for a ride in his white speedboat to the nearby island of Vanga, which he uses for swimming and clambakes. There they had a heavy lunch, with Tito's young wife Jovanka, presiding at the bar.

Then Tito played host in his palatial home for the first time to the large group of accompanying newspaper correspondents who strolled about a black marble reception room admiring the white and gold piano, oil paintings of nude cherubs and ladies, and a collection of ship models.

SITTING BESIDE Tito, who later said he was in agreement, Dulles told reporters:

"We were of common accord in recognizing the importance of independence for these (east European) states, noninterference from the outside in their internal affairs, and the right to develop their own social and economic order in ways of their choice."

These words would apply to Hungary, Bulgaria, Albania, Romania, Czechoslovakia and Poland. They indicated that Tito's views had not been changed by

Dictator Tito Cutting Red Tape

Pula, Yugoslavia, Nov. 7 (AP)—It takes a dictator to cut quickly through the meshes of red tape.

Marshall Tito has shown just how it is done, even brushing aside the formalities of passports and visas usually so necessary for entry into a foreign country.

TITO PUT his tapecutting machine into action when Secretary of State Dulles announced a week ago the Communist leader had invited him to his Adriatic hideaway at Brioni.

Correspondents in Geneva, who in the past had spent much time and effort in getting entry visas to Yugoslavia, were prepared for long delays before getting permission to enter the country with the Secretary of State.

"Please just sit down. Your visa will be ready in a moment," said a woman employe in the Yugoslav consulate in Geneva to a reporter.

It was, too.

NEWSMEN AND photographers appealed to Dulles for a special plane for them to make the trip. Tito agreed, and a big four-engined American aircraft took them to Pula, near Brioni.

Ford Will Offer Stocks to Public

New York, Nov. 7 (AP)—Stock of the Ford Motor Co., which revolutionized America with its mass production methods, is to be sold to the public after the first of the year.

The price and precise timing have not yet been set, but nearly seven million new common shares with voting rights will be offered. Financial analysts say it is expected to bring between 400 and 500 million dollars, indicating a price of $60 to $70 a share.

ANNOUNCEMENT that Ford, richest private business enterprise in the world, would desert the ranks of family-owned firms was made last night. It came from the Ford Foundation, multimillion-dollar philanthropic trust set up by Henry Ford, who died in 1947.

The new stock will be offered by the Ford Foundation—not by the company.

Henry Ford II, grandson of the founder and president of the Ford Company, has agreed with other Ford heirs to transfer 60 per cent of their exclusive voting control of the company to the new common stock, it was reported by H. Rowan Gaither Jr., foundation president.

The other 40 per cent of voting rights will remain with the Ford family.

With the public sale if its stock, the company will have to disclose for the first time its assets and earnings, one of its most carefully guarded secrets for 52½ years.

Education Board Member Refutes Edelmuth Attack

Chester A. Baltz Sr., 70 Clinton avenue, a member of the Kingston Board of Education, in a letter to The Freeman today said he interpreted remarks of William F. Edelmuth, Democratic candidate for mayor, as "unmistakable inference" that "all of us have been subservient tools of a corrupt political machine and as such unfit for public service."

"I PERSONALLY resent such an inference and implication and I know that other public spirited citizens similarly situated must feel the same as I do," he said in his letter, which follows:

"I am moved to write you regarding a radio talk made by William F. Edelmuth last Saturday evening. I did not hear his speech but have seen a copy of it.

"I AM NOT CONCERNED about the attack he made on Senator Wicks as such. I suppose that is his privilege when running for public office. But after he completed his remarks about the senator, Mr. Edelmuth went on to say:

" 'This is the same character (Senator Wicks) who dictates to our part-time mayor, the appointments of the members of the Board of Education of our city, who in turn choose the teachers to whom you entrust your children.'

"I am one of those individuals appointed by Republican mayors to serve on the Board of Education.

"Mr. Edelmuth's remarks can only be interpreted as charges against myself and every other person who has been appointed to the Board of Education since Senator Wicks has been a political leader. The unmistakable inference is that all of us have been subservient tools of a corrupt political machine and as such unfit for public service.

"I PERSONALLY RESENT such an inference and implication and I know that other public spirited citizens similarly situated must feel the same as I do. Let me list some of the men and women who served on the Board of Education during the seven years I was privileged to be a member of that Board. Here are the names:

Louis Bruhn, Mrs. Bertha Connelly, Harold H. Darling, Bernard A. Feeney, N. Jansen Fowler, Robert H. Herzog, Charles Katz, Richard M. Kalish, David Kline, Joseph J. Morgan, Robert O'Reilly, Clarence S. Rowland, William E. Rylance, Alfred Schmid, Mrs. Isabel Schoonmaker.

TO MY MIND, this is an imposing list of outstanding people and I know of the many hours that they gave of their time and efforts to properly administer the education system in Kingston. None of them would ever take orders from any political boss. They worked diligently and conscientiously, dedicating themselves to improving our school system. KHS Gives Stang 626 Victory

A high school straw vote today gave Mayor Frederick H. Stang, Republican candidate for re-election, and John J. Schwenk, his running mate for alderman-at-large, majorities of several hundred votes over their Democratic opponents.

Mayor Stang polled 626 more votes than William F. Edelmuth, a former mayor, who is opposing him, and Schwenk got 507 more votes than Harry A. Flowers, Jr., Democratic candidate for alderman-at-large.

The vote showed a total of 1,116 for Stang against 490 for Edelmuth and 923 for Schwenk against Flowers' 416.

Saugerties Board Studies Housing And Parking Plan

The first feasible proposal for a much needed municipal parking area in the shopping district of the village of Saugerties will be one of the main topics of discussion for possible action by the village board of trustees at the regular meeting scheduled for tonight at 8 p. m. in the Municipal building.

THE MUNICIPAL parking area proposal, a project of the Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce was first presented to a special meeting of the board of trustees and the Saugerties Planning Commission on Wednesday and has been under study by the board for possible action tonight.

Chamber President Thomas W. Reynolds Jr., Vice President Ben Greenspan, Trustees Nat Aaron and Andrew P. Vozdik and Albert J. Cawein, executive secretary attended the special meeting with the proposal.

MR. REYNOLDS announced that the Chamber has secured an option on a large tract of land to the rear of Partition street with a sizable exit and entrance on the street.

The property proposed for the parking area is known as the O'Dea property on which the O'Dea building stands.

According to plans presented at the meeting the building on the property would be demolished to allow a suitable exit and entrance on the street. The Chamber has also been negotiating for other grants of properties adjoining the tract which would be capable of parking approximately 300 to 400 cars. The property extends about 500 feet towards Washington avenue and is fairly level.

Soviets Minimize Arms Might in Celebration

Moscow, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Soviet Union today celebrated the 38th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution with a massive parade which played down Soviet military might.

No new guns, armor or aircraft were displayed in a brisk 20-minute arms demonstration, the briefest observers ever witnessed on this holiday.

THE THOUSANDS in Moscow's Red Square saw a big two-year-old T38 four-jet bomber zoom overhead with an escort of four supersonic fighters leading the air display. Spectators counted only 59 airplanes in all, including the T-38, nine two-jet bombers and 34 fighter planes. The fighters were a new version of the MIG which has a claimed speed faster than sound at level flight.

No field piece was displayed which could be called strictly atomic, but western military observers said current progress had made it possible for almost any large field piece to take an atomic charge. The four-jet bomber is considered capable of carrying atomic or nuclear weapons.

SOME OBSERVERS were puzzled as to why only one T38 was included since many more were displayed at last July's air show.

While the ceremony steered clear of emphasis on military potential, there was no lack of pomp on this biggest holiday in the Soviet Union.

Standing atop the Lenin-Stalin mausoleum, party and government leaders watched stolidly as the marchers filed past in sunny but cold weather. Heading the party of top leaders were Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Three Are Injured In Saturday Crash

Three persons suffered minor injuries in a two-car collision Saturday night on Route 299 about two and a half miles west of New Paltz, it was reported today by Highland State Police.

They were Charles Everett Wright, 24, of Route 32, New Paltz, James Coddington, 21, of RD 2, New Paltz, and Warren Shand, 18, of 12 Wurts avenue, New Paltz.

TROOPERS SAID a 1949 sedan operated by Mr. Wright, traveling east, was in collision with a 1951 sedan operated by Mr. Coddington, traveling west. The Wright vehicle pulled to the right shoulder to avoid collision with the Coddington car which had rounded a curve and was on the wrong side of the road, according to Troopers Bundschud and Franke, who investigated.

The Coddington car sideswiped the Wright sedan, the Wright car going off the right shoulder and hitting a tree with the right side of the vehicle, it was reported. The left front wheel of the Coddington car broke off, the vehicle crossing the highway and plunging into a culvert on the north side of the road, troopers said.

Mr. Coddington was arrested on a charge of reckless driving. The hearing is pending.

Mr. Coddington, who suffered bruises and lacerations of the forehead, was treated at the scene by Dr. Virgil DeWitt of New Paltz. Mr. Wright was treated by a private physician. Warren Shand, 18, of New Paltz, suffered lacerations and bruises, it was reported.

Will Ask Soviet to Join Plan

Idea Is Linked To Disarmament

Geneva, Nov. 7 (AP)—The United States will make a new effort this week to get Russia to join promptly in disarmament measures designed to make impossible a massive surprise attack by either of the world's great atomic powers.

Secretary of State Dulles, it was learned, will tell Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov that agreement on such measures—keyed to President Eisenhower's U. S.-Soviet aerial inspection plan—could be followed readily by other steps leading to worldwide arms reduction and control of atomic weapons.

DULLES IS PREPARED to assure Molotov that while the United States considers aerial inspection an essential measure in preventing surprise attack, it is prepared to consider any other suggestions for action the Soviets may put forward.

Meanwhile, a committee of Big Four experts seeking agreement on the lowering of Iron Curtain barriers to delevop East-West contacts have found the "Spirit of Geneva" wearing thin.

Authoritative sources say three days of secret negotations between representatives of the Big Three Western Powers and the Soviet Union have failed to produce agreement on any major point.

THE RUSSIANS have rejected proposals for a freer exchange of ideas and information except on technical matters. They want Western scientists, engineers and agronomists to contribute their know-how to the Soviets, but they maintain other exchanges would be "dangerous interference" in Soviet internal affairs.

Big Three negotiators have turned down Russian demands to end the West's ban on the sale of strategic goods to the Soviet bloc and have refused to discuss a Communist "freedom of the seas" proposal. The latter woud have put the West in the position of opposing the Nationalist Chinese blockade of the Chinese mainland.

THE COMMITTEE of experts was set up by the foreign ministers and instructed to report back Thursday, but it has found itself talking at cross-purposes.

The disarmament issue, a subject of east-west negotiation for seven years, is expected to come before the ministers in midweek. The conference was in recess by Soviet request today, the anniversary of the 1917 Russian revolution.

THE FOUR FOREIGN ministers also took Saturday and Sunday off. Dulles went to Vienna for the opening of the State Opera Saturday night and yesterday conferred with Yugoslav President Tito on the Island of Brioni.

Molotov, who flew to Moscow Saturday, was still away today as were British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and

Organize Salvage Corps for Fires

Establishment of a Salvage Corps Division in the Kingston Fire Department, which at fires would cover household furnishings, merchandise in stores, etc., was announced today by Chief James A. Brett.

Services will be contributed by the volunteer fire departments of the city and the first unit will be stationed at the A. H. Wicks Engine and Truck Company, Inc., Wiltwyck avenue, under the command of Capt. A. Foster Winfield.

The establishment of this division is in accordance with Chief Brett's plans submitted to the Board of Fire Commissioners. The chief said he believed this division would be one of the first in service in the Hudson Valley.

The chief pointed out that salvage units are now operated in all large cities, generally maintained by insurance companies. "Large savings have been made by the operation of these corps for the people of various communities," the chief said.

Idea Is Linked To Disarmament

Geneva, Nov. 7 (AP)—The United States will make a new effort this week to get Russia to join promptly in disarmament measures designed to make impossible a massive surprise attack by either of the world's great atomic powers.

Secretary of State Dulles, it was learned, will tell Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov that agreement on such measures—keyed to President Eisenhower's U. S.-Soviet aerial inspection plan—could be followed readily by other steps leading to worldwide arms reduction and control of atomic weapons.

DULLES IS PREPARED to assure Molotov that while the United States considers aerial inspection an essential measure in preventing surprise attack, it is prepared to consider any other suggestions for action the Soviets may put forward.

Meanwhile, a committee of Big Four experts seeking agreement on the lowering of Iron Curtain barriers to delevop East-West contacts have found the "Spirit of Geneva" wearing thin.

Authoritative sources say three days of secret negotations between representatives of the Big Three Western Powers and the Soviet Union have failed to produce agreement on any major point.

THE RUSSIANS have rejected proposals for a freer exchange of ideas and information except on technical matters. They want Western scientists, engineers and agronomists to contribute their know-how to the Soviets, but they maintain other exchanges would be "dangerous interference" in Soviet internal affairs.

Big Three negotiators have turned down Russian demands to end the West's ban on the sale of strategic goods to the Soviet bloc and have refused to discuss a Communist "freedom of the seas" proposal. The latter woud have put the West in the position of opposing the Nationalist Chinese blockade of the Chinese mainland.

THE COMMITTEE of experts was set up by the foreign ministers and instructed to report back Thursday, but it has found itself talking at cross-purposes.

The disarmament issue, a subject of east-west negotiation for seven years, is expected to come before the ministers in midweek. The conference was in recess by Soviet request today, the anniversary of the 1917 Russian revolution.

THE FOUR FOREIGN ministers also took Saturday and Sunday off. Dulles went to Vienna for the opening of the State Opera Saturday night and yesterday conferred with Yugoslav President Tito on the Island of Brioni.

Molotov, who flew to Moscow Saturday, was still away today as were British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and

Organize Salvage Corps for Fires

Establishment of a Salvage Corps Division in the Kingston Fire Department, which at fires would cover household furnishings, merchandise in stores, etc., was announced today by Chief James A. Brett.

Services will be contributed by the volunteer fire departments of the city and the first unit will be stationed at the A. H. Wicks Engine and Truck Company, Inc., Wiltwyck avenue, under the command of Capt. A. Foster Winfield.

The establishment of this division is in accordance with Chief Brett's plans submitted to the Board of Fire Commissioners. The chief said he believed this division would be one of the first in service in the Hudson Valley.

The chief pointed out that salvage units are now operated in all large cities, generally maintained by insurance companies. "Large savings have been made by the operation of these corps for the people of various communities," the chief said.

Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, bishop of the Washington area of the church, dedicated the museum before a capacity gathering of more than 1,500 persons. Bishop Sees Decline

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 7 (AP)—"Powerful economic and social forces," says Bishop William A. Scully of Albany, N. Y., have led to a decline of religion in the United States. Bishop Scully addressed the opening session last night of the 41st annual conference of Catholic Charities. "The state has assumed control of the marriage contract. Disillusioned spouses seek release in easy divorce, annulment, separation or dissolution of their marriages," Bishop Scully said.

Injured on Chute

Police were notified at 10 a. m. Sunday that Louis Roseberry, 42, of 11 Gill street, was injured when a coal chute cover on the sidewalk near 5 West Strand broke as he stepped on it. End Segregation

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Supreme Court today upheld a decision outlawing racial segregation in public parks and playgrounds. The decision was given by the U. S. Circuit Court in Richmond, Va. It said the doctrine of "separate but equal" facilities for whites and Negroes was swept away by the Supreme Court's 1954 opinion striking down segregation in public schools.

Ulster Deep Well Assures Adequate New Water Supply

A new well located near the Esopus Creek at the old fording place completed a 72 hour test and pumping continuously at a rate of more than 600 gallons per minute assures the Ulster Water District of the town of Ulster of an adequate and safe sanitary quality ground water supply.

HALL AND COMPANY, well drillers of Albany, successful bidder on the guaranteed well completed the test which is a rate equivalent to 864,000 gallons per day and is considerably in excess of the present requirements of the Water District. They drilled approximately 80 feet.

To accomodate the anticipated growth within the District, it was decided to acquire additional water under the contract in accordance with the prescribed terms.

THE NEXT STEP is to submit a petition to the Water Power and Control Commission of New York state for approval of the water supply and other adjuncts of the system. When approval is obtained, contracts will be let immediately for the installation of the distribution system, standpipe for storage of water and the pump station.

During the test period, samples of water for analysis were obtained by the Ulster County Health Department under the supervision of Harry Edinger. These tests were taken at 12 hour intervals. All samples analyzed showed the water to be of safe sanitary quality.

The contract and specifications for the well and test of same were made under the supervision of Edward I. McCaffery, local consulting engineer.

Driver Injured As Trailer Hits Tree in Mishap

Failure of brakes on a tractor trailer owned by the Denver and Chicago Trucking Company of 33-33 Iron street, Chicago, caused it to crash into a tree on the John T. Washburn property at Saugerties Sunday morning, injuring the driver. Dedrick Simmons of Chicago, driver, was proceeding north on 9-W when he applied the brakes as he approached the Simmons corner at Barkley Heights, Saugerties. ★FOR SUPERVISOR★ TOWN OF ULSTER

My name is JOHN HETSCO. I appeal to all voters in the Town of Ulster to uphold the two party system, which has fallen away to a one party system in the last decade. The Republican party has become a common place thing in the Town. For a healthy, growing town, we need action — not talk. If I am fortunate enough to be elected, I make no promises except that I shall endeavor at all times to do the greatest good for the greatest number, representing the interests of the people as a whole, sincerely and honestly, to the best of my ability.

Methodist Museum

Baltimore, Nov. 7 (AP)—A museum housing some of the most treasured relics of the Methodist Church was dedicated here last night at lovely Lane Methodist Church, the so-called mother church of American Methodism. Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, bishop of the Washington area of the church, dedicated the museum before a capacity gathering of more than 1,500 persons. Included among the relics collected at the church, first organized in 1784, are a copy of the imitation of Christ used by John Wesley, founder of Methodism.

Bishop Sees Decline

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 7 (AP)—"Powerful economic and social forces," says Bishop William A. Scully of Albany, N. Y., have led to a decline of religion in the United States. Bishop Scully addressed the opening session last night of the 41st annual conference of Catholic Charities. "The state has assumed control of the marriage contract. Disillusioned spouses seek release in easy divorce, annulment, separation or dissolution of their marriages," Bishop Scully said.

Injured on Chute

Police were notified at 10 a. m. Sunday that Louis Roseberry, 42, of 11 Gill street, was injured when a coal chute cover on the sidewalk near 5 West Strand broke as he stepped on it. He suffered abrasions of the right leg and heel and was treated at Kingston Hospital, the report said. A light and barricade was placed at the site by the public works department until the cover was replaced.

End Segregation

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Supreme Court today upheld a decision outlawing racial segregation in public parks and playgrounds. The decision was given by the U. S. Circuit Court in Richmond, Va. It said the doctrine of "separate but equal" facilities for whites and Negroes was swept away by the Supreme Court's 1954 opinion striking down segregation in public schools.

Costly Windows

WATER SUPPLY INCREASED—The town of Ulster and the Ulster Water District is now assured of adequate and safe sanitary quality of water from new well drilled by Hall and Company of Albany who was the successful bidder on the guaranteed well. Ulster Deep Well Assures Adequate New Water Supply

A new well located near the Esopus Creek at the old fording place completed a 72 hour test and pumping continuously at a rate of more than 600 gallons per minute assures the Ulster Water District of the town of Ulster of an adequate and safe sanitary quality ground water supply.

HALL AND COMPANY, well drillers of Albany, successful bidder on the guaranteed well completed the test which is a rate equivalent to 864,000 gallons per day and is considerably in excess of the present requirements of the Water District. They drilled approximately 80 feet.

To accomodate the anticipated growth within the District, it was decided to acquire additional water under the contract in accordance with the prescribed terms.

THE NEXT STEP is to submit a petition to the Water Power and Control Commission of New York state for approval of the water supply and other adjuncts of the system. When approval is obtained, contracts will be let immediately for the installation of the distribution system, standpipe for storage of water and the pump station.

During the test period, samples of water for analysis were obtained by the Ulster County Health Department under the supervision of Harry Edinger. These tests were taken at 12 hour intervals. All samples analyzed showed the water to be of safe sanitary quality.

The contract and specifications for the well and test of same were made under the supervision of Edward I. McCaffery, local consulting engineer.

Driver Injured As Trailer Hits Tree in Mishap

Failure of brakes on a tractor trailer owned by the Denver and Chicago Trucking Company of 33-33 Iron street, Chicago, caused it to crash into a tree on the John T. Washburn property at Saugerties Sunday morning, injuring the driver. Dedrick Simmons of Chicago, driver, was proceeding north on 9-W when he applied the brakes as he approached the Simmons corner at Barkley Heights, Saugerties. Finding he had lost his brakes he continued down Burt street until he observed the steep hill on that street. He then pulled over on the Washburn lawn and the truck collided with a tree.

SIMMONS was thrown against the windshield, breaking it and inflicting a deep scalp wound and cuts on the face. Clarence Bumgardner of Chicago, helper, was thrown from the cab. Chief of Police Arthur W. Richter investigated and took Simmons to the Dale Sanitarium in the police car where Dr. George Pace attended the injured man. C. A. Lynch Fire Company was called out to prevent fire from leaking gas tanks.

The department said all major types of income—including that of farm proprietors — registered August-to-September gains. Over the 12-month period, however, farm income was the only type that did not show an increase. It declined about one billion dollars.

GARRY HUNTER

Many people in their twenties and thirties can save $25 a week but will not do so until they set up a program to accomplish this. Requests for suitable plans frequently come to me.

A person of 25 has a 40-year period of saving ahead of him should he retire at age 65. And even small savings properly invested over that span of years would bring a measure of financial self-reliance. What should he do?

Well, at 25, he could visualize himself at 65 and set an appropriate financial goal. Then he should survey his vocational resources, saving habits and mode of living to determine how best to achieve his goal. Writing 1,000 words about himself might aid in clarifying his objectives.

* * *

In the light of what has just been said, I shall discuss the concrete plans of Garry Hunter, 29, who has his 40-year program under way.

Garry's father died penniless 16 years ago, leaving the boy and his mother destitute. That need not have been. The father never knew the words thrift and saving.

CONSEQUENTLY, the economic struggle was terrific. But Garry got through college, served in the army, and finally became a salesman. His economic corner was turned two years ago, at 27, he was made an assistant sales manager. He is on the way.

Between July, 1953, and Labor Day, 1954, (thanks to some resourceful sales work) he put $2,000 in savings banks and opened a checking account in a commercial bank.

Memories of his father's squandering haunted him for years. His parent left no assets, no insurance. It was only natural then that last year when an insurance man told him he could establish a $25,000 insurance estate for $600, he was quick to purchase such a policy.

The day the contract was delivered to him, Garry said to his young wife: "Well, anyhow, if anything happens to me, I won't leave you as Dad did Mom."

In 1965, Garry will be 39. A lot of things will happen to him during the next ten years. And he proposes to review his vocational status, standard of living, and program for self-reliant financial security periodically when his earnings increase as they are presently doing.

The year 1955 has been a big one for him. In addition to other successful-selling rewards, a substantial year-end bonus will come to him in December. What will he do with it? (1) Buy another $25,000 insurance contract; (2) leave a little more money in the bank; (3) start his common stock investing program.

What securities will he purchase? In the begining, three: a motor, an oil and a rubber stock. Why these?

He uses a car in his sales work. He reads that bigger and better highways are on the way in America. He sees in the papers something he believes: that by 1965, motor car production will be up around 12,000,000 vehicles yearly. That will mean more oil, gas and tires will be needed. It appeals to him to buy investment values that will be needed. It appeals to him to buy investment values that will benefit from this growth.

Is he a nervous fellow who anxiously watches stock price fluctuations? No. So, when he buys his motor, oil and rubber shares he will not be looking at a ticker-tape but at a ten-year vista with America growing steadily in population and economic needs. Sure, he will talk with somebody who knows whether the earnings-price ratio of his intended purchases is logical.

At age 39, 49, 59, the solid base of his program will be deeper and broader. From a penniless boy at age 13, Garry will become in his forties and fifties one of America's well-known and self-reliant executives.

THE FORUM — (Q) "Occasionally you stress insurance in your column. When should a young person buy it?"

J. F.

(A) The best and surest way for a young person to set up a $5,000-$50,000 estate is to buy a life insurance policy as soon as it is vocationally possible.

Check Job Insurance Status, Firms Urged

State Industrial Commissioner Isador Lubin has urged all small businessmen who have one, two or three employes to examine carefully what their status may be under the New York State Unemployment Insurance law next January.

As a result of 1955 amendments to the law, any firm which has three or more employes on any day in 1956 will become liable for the unemployment insurance tax on wages for the rest of 1956 and all of 1957 at least; and beginning January 1, 1957, any firm which has two or more employes on any day will come under the law.

"This means," Commissioner Lubin said, "that even the smallest firm which regularly has only one employe will become liable for the unemployment insurance tax if it employs a couple of temporary laborers or sales clerks or extra employes of any kind for even one day or part of a day in 1956; or if it employs only one extra employe for no matter how brief a period, beginning in 1957."

Modern Homes Impress Soviets

New York, Nov. 7 (AP)—Ten Soviet housing experts, near the end of a month-long U. S. tour, are spending their last two days here resting and sightseeing in Manhattan.

They checked into the Plaza Hotel yesterday after a visit of 14 American cities.

Peter A. Spyshnov, chief Soviet sanitary engineer, said the delegation was greatly impressed by American homes, particularly the modern kitchens and bathrooms.

The group came here at the invitation of the National Assn. of Home Builders. Spyshnov said they had taken many photographs and hoped to arrange an exhibit of them, along with some American construction films, on a pavilion of the All-Unions building in Moscow.

Among building achievements which delegation members said impressed them were the widespread use of air conditioning and the facilities of public schools.

Do You Remember

BY SOPHIE MILLER

Some folks take the trouble to collect interesting information otherwise difficult to find. One of the veteran commanders of the Hudson river years ago was Capt. John Dunbar. He was an authority for the following facts regarding Hudson river steamboats. For instance, the first steamboat on the river to have a ladies' cabin on deck, with promenade deck above, was the Chancellor Livingston back in 1817. The steamboat, Olive Branch, was the first to have guards all around. All the other boats at the time had guards around the wheels, and some had guards extending forward; but none had them extending aft. The Olive Branch at this time was also the first that used a bell to call passengers; all others had a bugle to blow. The steamboat Constitution and Constellation were the first to have iron boilers placed amidship on deck. All others had boilers in the hold, and these were of copper back in 1825.

These are not questions for a quiz show for who in the world could answer them. The Stevens steamboat, New Philadelphia, was the first steamboat on the Hudson river to have her boilers (two in number) placed on the guards. She was the first to abandon the bowsprit. Of course it would take an experienced boatman to understand this. In 1829, the Stevens steamboat, North America had a hog frame put in her, the first on the river. The steamboat, Westchester, Capt. St. John, was the first steamboat on the Hudson with a round stern. All others had been square sterned vessels up to 1834. In 1841, iron steering chains were put on the steamboat, Rochester, the first adoption of them on the river; before that all steamboat steering tackle was of rope. With the building of each steamboat new ideas were tried out all the forerunners of our present day steamship liners. There must always be a first who ventures a new idea.

Perhaps old timers will remember the name of the best known Hudson river steamboat captains, the late Capt. Harry Barber, who during the last years of his life, managed a line of tugs out of Albany. He was second pilot on the steamboat, Victory, which carried passengers and freight out of Rondout, and also towed coal barges for the D. and H. Canal Co. The captain of the Victory was the late James S. McEntee, father of the artist, Jervis McEntee. The readers may remember mention of the above names by their elders. As commander of the James Madison, then towing on the river, Captain Barber went to the assistance of the ill-fated steamboat, Henry Clay, when she burned near Yonkers in 1852. Again, in 1864, with the towboat Herald, Capt. Barber was instrumental in saving the lives of a large number of passengers as well as some of the officers and crew of the big People's Line, night boat, Isaac Newton, when she exploded one of her boilers. Perhaps readers have read about this in more detail elsewhere.

One reader wanted to know about an old-fashioned horse-propelled ferry used for crossing the Hudson. This craft was operated between Athens and Hudson and in 1854 was replaced by a steam ferryboat. The late Capt. Uriah Day operated it for a time. It was known simply as a "Horse-boat." It had six horses, three on each side all facing the one way. To make the wheels work either way one pulled out a pin and reversed the action of the cogs.

GARRY HUNTER

Many people in their twenties and thirties can save $25 a week but will not do so until they set up a program to accomplish this. Requests for suitable plans frequently come to me.

A person of 25 has a 40-year period of saving ahead of him should he retire at age 65. And even small savings properly invested over that span of years would bring a measure of financial self-reliance. What should he do?

Well, at 25, he could visualize himself at 65 and set an appropriate financial goal. Then he should survey his vocational resources, saving habits and mode of living to determine how best to achieve his goal. Writing 1,000 words about himself might aid in clarifying his objectives.

* * *

In the light of what has just been said, I shall discuss the concrete plans of Garry Hunter, 29, who has his 40-year program under way.

Garry's father died penniless 16 years ago, leaving the boy and his mother destitute. That need not have been. The father never knew the words thrift and saving.

CONSEQUENTLY, the economic struggle was terrific. But Garry got through college, served in the army, and finally became a salesman. His economic corner was turned two years ago, at 27, he was made an assistant sales manager. He is on the way.

Between July, 1953, and Labor Day, 1954, (thanks to some resourceful sales work) he put $2,000 in savings banks and opened a checking account in a commercial bank.

Memories of his father's squandering haunted him for years. His parent left no assets, no insurance. It was only natural then that last year when an insurance man told him he could establish a $25,000 insurance estate for $600, he was quick to purchase such a policy.

The day the contract was delivered to him, Garry said to his young wife: "Well, anyhow, if anything happens to me, I won't leave you as Dad did Mom."

In 1965, Garry will be 39. A lot of things will happen to him during the next ten years. And he proposes to review his vocational status, standard of living, and program for self-reliant financial security periodically when his earnings increase as they are presently doing.

The year 1955 has been a big one for him. In addition to other successful-selling rewards, a substantial year-end bonus will come to him in December. What will he do with it? (1) Buy another $25,000 insurance contract; (2) leave a little more money in the bank; (3) start his common stock investing program.

What securities will he purchase? In the begining, three: a motor, an oil and a rubber stock. Why these?

He uses a car in his sales work. He reads that bigger and better highways are on the way in America. He sees in the papers something he believes: that by 1965, motor car production will be up around 12,000,000 vehicles yearly. That will mean more oil, gas and tires will be needed. It appeals to him to buy investment values that will be needed. It appeals to him to buy investment values that will benefit from this growth.

Is he a nervous fellow who anxiously watches stock price fluctuations? No. So, when he buys his motor, oil and rubber shares he will not be looking at a ticker-tape but at a ten-year vista with America growing steadily in population and economic needs. Sure, he will talk with somebody who knows whether the earnings-price ratio of his intended purchases is logical.

At age 39, 49, 59, the solid base of his program will be deeper and broader. From a penniless boy at age 13, Garry will become in his forties and fifties one of America's well-known and self-reliant executives.

THE FORUM — (Q) "Occasionally you stress insurance in your column. When should a young person buy it?"

J. F.

(A) The best and surest way for a young person to set up a $5,000-$50,000 estate is to buy a life insurance policy as soon as it is vocationally possible.

Harry C. France will answer one letter each week through this column. If you have any investment questions, write in care of this newspaper.

Check Job Insurance Status, Firms Urged

State Industrial Commissioner Isador Lubin has urged all small businessmen who have one, two or three employes to examine carefully what their status may be under the New York State Unemployment Insurance law next January.

As a result of 1955 amendments to the law, any firm which has three or more employes on any day in 1956 will become liable for the unemployment insurance tax on wages for the rest of 1956 and all of 1957 at least; and beginning January 1, 1957, any firm which has two or more employes on any day will come under the law.

"This means," Commissioner Lubin said, "that even the smallest firm which regularly has only one employe will become liable for the unemployment insurance tax if it employs a couple of temporary laborers or sales clerks or extra employes of any kind for even one day or part of a day in 1956; or if it employs only one extra employe for no matter how brief a period, beginning in 1957."

Modern Homes Impress Soviets

New York, Nov. 7 (AP)—Ten Soviet housing experts, near the end of a month-long U. S. tour, are spending their last two days here resting and sightseeing in Manhattan.

They checked into the Plaza Hotel yesterday after a visit of 14 American cities.

Peter A. Spyshnov, chief Soviet sanitary engineer, said the delegation was greatly impressed by American homes, particularly the modern kitchens and bathrooms.

The group came here at the invitation of the National Assn. of Home Builders. Spyshnov said they had taken many photographs and hoped to arrange an exhibit of them, along with some American construction films, on a pavilion of the All-Unions building in Moscow.

Among building achievements which delegation members said impressed them were the widespread use of air conditioning and the facilities of public schools.

Do You Remember

BY SOPHIE MILLER

Some folks take the trouble to collect interesting information otherwise difficult to find. One of the veteran commanders of the Hudson river years ago was Capt. John Dunbar. He was an authority for the following facts regarding Hudson river steamboats. For instance, the first steamboat on the river to have a ladies' cabin on deck, with promenade deck above, was the Chancellor Livingston back in 1817. The steamboat, Olive Branch, was the first to have guards all around. All the other boats at the time had guards around the wheels, and some had guards extending forward; but none had them extending aft. The Olive Branch at this time was also the first that used a bell to call passengers; all others had a bugle to blow. The steamboat Constitution and Constellation were the first to have iron boilers placed amidship on deck. All others had boilers in the hold, and these were of copper back in 1825.

These are not questions for a quiz show for who in the world could answer them. The Stevens steamboat, New Philadelphia, was the first steamboat on the Hudson river to have her boilers (two in number) placed on the guards. She was the first to abandon the bowsprit. Of course it would take an experienced boatman to understand this. In 1829, the Stevens steamboat, North America had a hog frame put in her, the first on the river. The steamboat, Westchester, Capt. St. John, was the first steamboat on the Hudson with a round stern. All others had been square sterned vessels up to 1834. In 1841, iron steering chains were put on the steamboat, Rochester, the first adoption of them on the river; before that all steamboat steering tackle was of rope. With the building of each steamboat new ideas were tried out all the forerunners of our present day steamship liners. There must always be a first who ventures a new idea.

Perhaps old timers will remember the name of the best known Hudson river steamboat captains, the late Capt. Harry Barber, who during the last years of his life, managed a line of tugs out of Albany. He was second pilot on the steamboat, Victory, which carried passengers and freight out of Rondout, and also towed coal barges for the D. and H. Canal Co. The captain of the Victory was the late James S. McEntee, father of the artist, Jervis McEntee. The readers may remember mention of the above names by their elders. As commander of the James Madison, then towing on the river, Captain Barber went to the assistance of the ill-fated steamboat, Henry Clay, when she burned near Yonkers in 1852. Again, in 1864, with the towboat Herald, Capt. Barber was instrumental in saving the lives of a large number of passengers as well as some of the officers and crew of the big People's Line, night boat, Isaac Newton, when she exploded one of her boilers. GET OUT AND VOTE

Now that the political campaign is over, one thing remains to be said and that is that people who have the right to vote ought to vote.

The only safeguard against entrenched minority control of government is majority participation in elections by the people. The American theory of government is that government based on the will of the majority is good government because the majority of the people are intelligent.

But when intelligent citizens fail to vote, bad government slips in through the loophole of their neglect.

Every qualified citizen of Ulster county should make it his personal business in determining our public officials. In no other way can the results express the wishes of the people as they are supposed to do and should do.

This local election in which a county judge, district attorney, county treasurer, coroner, mayor and alderman-at-large of the City of Kingston and supervisors and aldermen are to be chosen concerns every citizen.

The right of voting in this election is one of the great privileges of American citizenship. Your duty to vote is an obligation of citizenship.

The percentage of votes cast by citizens who took the time off to register in past years has been very low.

Of the people who go to the polls, a very low percentage take time to vote on proposed amendments to the State Constitution. The result is that a small minority can determine the fate of proposals affecting all the people of the state.

A check of the ten proposed amendments and the proposition, which will appear at the head of the ballot tomorrow, shows that Amendment One if approved would authorize the state to borrow up to 750 million dollars for highway construction and repair. Amendment Two, if it passes, will permit the Legislature to increase public housing subsidies from the present level of 25 million dollars a year to 34 million dollars. Housing subsidies, once contracted, are payable for 50 years.

While an exact dollar value cannot be placed on the other amendments, they are all important to every citizen. They affect the voting laws, the state forest preserve, assessment of real estate, local debt, sewer system construction, whether or not certain judges may hold outside jobs and the appointment of temporary judges.

The issue of the candidates and the question of the amendments and the proposition will be in the hands of the people tomorrow.

Stand up and be counted as a true American citizen.

AMERICA'S OLDEST MEN

Where did the Indians come from? The best opinion, bolstered by discoveries just made, is that they came from Asia, by way of Bering Strait.

The gap between America and Asia is partly filled by the Aleutian Islands, those windswept outposts where some of our men were stationed during the war. These would make it possible for kayaks or other primitive boats to feel their way cautiously across the water gap to the American continent. On a clear day the American islands are clearly visible from the Asiatic. Still, what brave folks those first explorers must have been! It took courage to sail a stormy sea in flimsy boats, not knowing where they were going or what they might find.

Archaeologists along the Alaskan border have found 8,000 objects of nine different civilizations, many of them related to those in Eastern Siberia. There the Chukchee and Koyak tribes bear some resemblance to the Eskimos.

The new finds cannot yet be dated except by wild guesses. They are not startling in character—stone scrapers, arrowheads and flakers. Still, they are the oldest traces of civilization found anywhere in North America.

THE STRUGGLE FOR RAW MATERIALS

The basic error of American thinking since 1943 has been that Soviet Russia was most concerned with the conquest of Western Europe. Our high political as well as military command have based their concepts of war and diplomacy upon this hypothesis despite the historic fact that Soviet Russia, since 1917, has without deviation or diversion indicated that its major interest has been Asia and secondarily Africa.

The reason is that in relationship to historic forces, Russian thinking is orthodox. The Kremlin is building the largest empire known to history; it is following the classic line of empire building which is to increase the supplies of food and raw materials. Soviet Russia has no need to try to digest 200,000,000 indigestible Western Europeans, who, for centuries, have been short of food and raw materials and have expanded over every ocean, at great cost of life and wealth, in search of these commodities.

In Asia, Soviet Russia can find everything to make the Soviet Universal State entirely self-sufficient, and Soviet Russia has built her enormous submarine fleet to keep open the lanes of commerce in the Pacific and Indian Oceans which the Kremlin seeks to dominate not so much in war as for commerce, for the movement of bulk goods in vessels in the 20th century as Britain did in the 18th and 19th centuries.

The stimulation of the Egypt-Israel fracas, the stimulation of Afghan-Pathan-Pakistan conflicts have, of course, political overtones and serve to lessen the effectiveness of American policy centering in NATO. But primarily what Russia achieved by becoming Egypt's ally and protector is that the long historic struggle to escape from the Black Sea through the Dardanelles has been achieved. Soviet Russia will before long be a factor in Suez Canal affairs and all the current denials are meaningless because the course of history is relentless and denials are often like dead flowers which still look somewhat alive.

If the Soviet Universal State can use Egypt as a base to eliminate not only Israel but the Western Powers from the Middle East and North Africa, the balance of forces, the balance of food supply and raw materials, the balance of power will be radically altered.

If we accept General Douglas MacArthur's philosophic thesis that man has reached the period when war as an instrument of political power has ceased to be available because the conqueror can no longer avail himself of any fruits of conquest, it is easier to understand the Russian strategy, which is to reduce the authority and power of the West without fighting a war.

By this process, Soviet Russia has added to the Soviet Universal State, as an integral part or a sphere of influence, China, part of Korea, most of Indo-China, Tibet, India, Afghanistan, Mongolia, Tannu Tuva, and has made inroads upon Burma, Malaya and Indonesia. Having reached the Indian Ocean, which Disraeli secured for Great Britain through the Suez Canal, the Kremlin has moved politically upon Egypt and the Middle East. Utillizing old and new techniques of "friendship," Soviet Russia and India, working in harmony, will bring into their fold the anti-colonial peoples of these areas. Western resistance is so negligible.

The next step should be Japan, although Japan is no longer essential to Russia, for the same reason that Western Europe is not, namely, that Japan can supply no foodstuffs or raw materials to the larder of the Soviet Universal State. Japan's greatest value, as is Germany's greatest value, is a capacity for competent industrialization which could be utilized if the cost were not too great. The West, particularly the United States, is handling Japan so offensively that it would not at all be surprising if Japan voluntarily fell in the Russian orbit. The treatment of Minister of Foreign Affairs Mamoru Shigemitsu in this country was so thoughtless that its consequences may be tragic.

What this all sums up to is that the hypothesis that Soviet Russia seeks to conquer Europe, so surely accepted at Teheran (1943) and carried forward at Yalta (1945), has not proved out by 1955. On the contrary, the past 12 years have substantiated the theory most emphasized by Lenin that Europe could be conquered by way of Asia. In pursuit of this doctrine, Soviet Russia permits nothing to stand in the way and therefore it seeks the elimination of Israel as an unnecessary Western enclave in Asia.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

FIBROSITIS

One of the most common causes of aches and pains around the joints and in the muscles is the condition known as "fibrositis" but it is difficult to tell just how often it occurs because the various countries define it in different ways. For example, during World War 2, rheumatologists in America were startled when British authorities estimated that 70 per cent of rheumatic cases admitted to a British Army Hospital were fibrositis. On the other hand, reports from United States Army Hospitals reported cases of fibrositis being as three to five per cent. No single cause has yet been determined and no one knows exactly what it is.

The areas most commonly affected by the aches and pains of fibrositis are the neck, shoulder and shoulder blades, the lower back, buttocks and the chest wall. Some research workers have stressed the fact that fibrositis may cause soreness and pain in the muscular walls of the abdomen but others feel that pain of unknown origin in the abdomen should not be disposed of as fibrositis of abdominal muscles until more is known of this condition.

The one good thing about fibrositis is that it can trouble a person on or off for years and yet does not produce any deformity or even great disability. With fibrositis there may be some involvement of the protective sheaths around tendons and the little bursas or cushions that are to be found around some of our joints. The one most likely to give trouble is under the muscle that runs over the top of the shoulder.

A person with fibrositis is likely to suffer from sore muscles after his first tennis, baseball or bowling game of the season. Injury is considered a common cause of fibrositis. It may be due to a single happening or to repeated strain over a long period. It is common among taxi drivers, porters and those carrying heavy weights in the upper back region. Fibrositis in the arms and hands has been described in gardeners, locomotive firemen and bus conductors; in the lower back in bus drivers, miners, policemen, stokers and milkmen.

There would seem to be no doubt that exposure to cold, wet, drafts, and sudden changes in temperature or weather can bring on an attack and some people with a tendency to fibrositis avoid working in the cooler, damper atmosphere of the basements of their homes or in air-conditioned rooms.

All these sorenesses and aching of the muscles, like those of arthritis, tend to be worse after the person sits awhile or lies in bed, and tend to clear away when the persons gets up and walks around. Most persons with fibrositis do not require treatment of any serious type. Most of them never do anything about it; some will take an occasional tablet of aspirin or soak in a hot bath, or get some massage or exercise a bit.

"The Natives Are Getting Restless"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington—(NEA)—Pretty Barbara Eisenhower, wife of Ike's son, Maj. John Eisenhower, is as careful a buyer of clothes as her mother-in-law, Mamie. With three growing kids and increasing social responsibilities, Barbara keeps a sharp eye on the family budget.

Other day, for example, Barbara stepped into a plush women's store here in town. She spotted a beautiful cocktail dress, but when the salesgirl told her the price, she shook her head.

"It's just what I want, but it would be too extravagant on a major's salary."

RED STANLEY, the genial chief bartender at the Gettysburg Hotel, where correspondents and official visitors will stay, isn't about to be aloof to his White House party customers. The speciality of the bar is a giant old-fashioned cocktail. He stirs up a mean Gibson, too. It's great apple country around there, and Red is proud of the local apple jack he serves.

THERE ARE SOME exotic foods which you just can't get at a restaurant or even at a big dinner. Like sambal badjak, a red-hot Indonesian sauce which would take the fur off a Mexican's tongue. Or ajam odor, chicken cooked in thick spice sauce; pisang goreng, bananas baked in a heavy candied gravy, and sajoer djagoeng, a corn soup which you wouldn't mind serving for dessert.

That's the menu Mrs. Hari Kruithof, wife of a Dutch World Bank official, served to an intimate group of bank and embassy people the other night. She cooked everything herself, too.

Excuse for the party was the arrival of a jar of sambal badjak from Indonesia, the only thing Mrs. Kruithof didn't cook. But who needs an excuse to serve food like that?

WHEN IKE ARRIVES at his farm in Gettysburg, Pa., he is sure to get all the privacy he needs.

Citizens of the town have agreed to give the White House family the aloof treatment. They feel it's up to them to make sure the President's Gettysburg convalescence is unbothered by rubberneckers, sightseers or nosey townspeople.

Civic leaders also have heard that the reason why the Eisenhowers like Denver so much is because people there tend to leave them alone and do not make a fuss every time they see Mamie on the street or the First Family leaving church. Gettysburg will try to follow the same pattern.

DETROIT HAS shown this town something new in the way of parties. A few nights ago executives from General Motors Truck Division came down from Michigan to entertain 2500 members of the American Trucking Association during their annual convention.

Party started with cocktails and such hors d'oeuvres as oysters Rockefeller, imported cheese and caviar. Dinner featured shrimp-crabmeat cocktails, giant slabs of roast beef, three kinds of wine and a song-fest by the Air Force choir and opera star Marguerite Piazza.

Then they rolled up the rugs and danced to all hours.

Estimated tab for the blow-out: $60,000.

MOST DELIGHTFUL news White House correspondents have had in years is the chance that Ike might spend some time in Key West, Fla., during his recovery.

The vacations which former President Truman spent on the naval base there were among the most enjoyable times reporters ever had. The base has the best swimming pool in the state. The fishing is great. And the hospitality is tops.

If Ike goes down there, it will be the best-covered vacation in White House history, probably.

Criticize Appellate Court For 'Left Wing' Decisions

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 6—Is the security of the United States during wartime of greater importance than the so-called right of the individual to employment on a ship carrying troops or war munitions when the government has its own reasons for believing such an individual's presence might be dangerous to the safety of the ship?

The Ninth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals says, in effect, that the individual is more important.

Must the doubt as to the risk taken in hiring such a man be resolved in favor of the individual unless the government through a long tortuous process of hearings can prove that the information it has gathered is as conclusive as a court requires in a criminal case?

THE SAME DECISION in the Ninth Circuit, in effect, says "yes."

These two vital questions as decided by Judges Pope and McAllister over the dissent of Judge Healy would, if upheld by the Supreme Court of the United States, make the right of the individual superior to that of the Government and superior to the rights of the many individuals aboard the ship whose lives would be endangered. It could frustrate and hamstring the operations of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in weeding out subversives who infiltrate our shipping in wartime. A substantial part of the seamen's union setup has for many years been controlled by the Communists.

Judges Pope and McAllister in their written opinion went out of their way to question the credibility of the F.B.I.'s claim that its operations would be hampered if it had to reveal its sources of information. It is a sad commentary on the alleged objectivity of the two judges in this case that they are so willing to say a seaman suspected of subversive connections is entitled to the benefit of the doubt and a hearing as to all the information against him in the government's files but the F.B.I.'s considered statement that it must protect sources of information is not accepted in good faith by the judges involved. They set themselves up apparently as having superior knowledge of the problems and techniques involved in detecting subversives than has the F.B.I. which caught Klaus Fuchs, the Rosenbergs and a long list of Communist spies and agents in recent years.

THE CASE under consideration arose in 1950 during the Korean war when Congress passed a law stating:

"Whenever the President finds that the security of the United States is in danger by reason of actual or threatened war, or invasion, or insurrection or subversive activity, or of disturbances or threatened disturbances of the international relations of the United States, the President is authorized to institute such measures and issue such rules and regulations . . . to safeguard against destruction, loss, or injury from sabotage or other subversive acts, accidents or other causes of similar nature, vessels, harbors, ports, and waterfront facilities in the United States . . ."

The President thereupon issued an executive order delegating to the U. S. Coast Guard the task of policing the waterfront where vessels of war as well as commerce were being used during the Korean conflict to carry supplies to the war zone.

Now the Ninth Circuit says the action taken under this law by the Coast Guard commandant was unconstitutional because the commandant didn't make available to the suspects all the sources of information possessed by the Coast Guard and the names of the informants. It didn't matter whether the F.B.I. had checked up and corroborated the information from different sources — unknown to one another — the whole file had to be opened up to the suspects.

THIS MEANS, of course, that many persons hereafter will not give the F.B.I. information if they are to be taken away from their daily work to become involved in protracted litigation. It could mean that only after an an act of sabotage had occurred and the damage had been done to the ship could a trial with the proper evidence be held to eliminate the seaman from his job.

Many Americans will not think this is giving enough weight to the requirements of the armed services in wartime or to the security of the United States or to the fate of the soldiers and sailors aboard the ships or to the American troops already at the battlefront whose success might depend on cargoes of war supplies being delivered promptly instead of being subject to delays and sabotage.

The two judges appear to have swallowed hook, line and sinker the "left wing" philosophy today on security risks and the propaganda line of "The Fund for the Republic," which is using millions of dollars to propagandize the country in behalf of the same peculiar concept of so-called "constitutional rights."

The two judges quote approvingly from references to a few cases in which some early rulings on security risks were reconsidered by government boards. The implication is that these cases—a few of thousands—make it desirable to overhaul the whole system. It's like saying that because acquittals occur in some criminal cases the grand jury system should be abolished.

THE COURT'S opinion accepts moreover the current distortion of the words "due process." This term usually refers to proceedings in court trials and has not until recently been invoked to interfere with the right of the executive agencies of the government to decide who shall be hired or who shall be permitted to enter government property or sail on ships operating for the government.

If the "left wing" concept of "due process" should be accepted, the government's hands would be tied and it would become necessary to hold trials of indefinite length before the government could keep a seaman off a ship even though the government is convinced he has communist connections.

This is not the view which the Supreme Court of the United States has upheld in the past when it proclaimed the doctrine of a "clear and present danger"—namely that it isn't necessary for the government of the United States to wait till the communist conspiracy has been consummated and subversion has been successful before taking steps to protect the national security.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Bonn, Germany — European producers are bargaining into a field which American automobile makers explored, exploited and abandoned long ago. This stuffy language is the best I can manage at the moment to barge into the subject of the cheap, light automobile which the American industry has rejected as an illusion of the uninformed.

About two years ago, K. T. Keller, of Chrysler, one of our giants, impatiently instructed me that, dammit man, weight has little to do with the cost of a car. Steel is the heavy component of the shiny new car, but one of the cheapest, and labor is the principal component of the cost. All right, but just the same, the Europeans are actually spawning cheap light cars. The common man of Europe, the artisan, the white-collar man, is graduating from the bike to the motor-bike and from the motor-bike to a little car which may be little more than an enclosed motorcycle. This is someting new in his life. In Italy, it came so unexpectedly that he has gone wild and drives madly with no muffler.

Many of the Italians have just reached the motorcycle stage, but the Germans seem to be skipping that and going from the bike to a variety of novelties, including plastic bubbles on wheels. Some have only three wheels, but four seems to be the practical minimum. They are little heavier than toys, they look like the blister of a helicopter and the smallest carry only two or two and the baby, with one adult passenger in line behind the driver. Their speed is all the traffic can stand in reasonable safety, but they are weak on hills. More power will be a fairly simple problem once the designs are fixed.

Not many Americans under 50 will remember the Metz, Durant, the Maxwell or even the ugly but ever-reliable flivver. There were other little bugs in that phase which failed for reasons too complex for this discussion but not because they were too light and small for the kind of roads we have now. However, the roads of their own day did give them a very hard time and certainly have something to do with the death of their type. European roads now are better than the American roads of those days, but the American roads today are so good that these new European types should have no trouble. The variety is so great that some of the innovations are sure to fail for competitive reasons even though they have fundamental virtures.

Swiss secondary roads are bad and Britain has, in a rough manner of putting it, no roads at all to accommodate a tremendous burden of traffic. Hitler's great through roads, a legacy from his WPA or CCC, give Germany an asset for this new phase of their manufacturing industry. They start with highways which other countries can't match, although France has had good military routes for generations and has put through super-highways in recent years.

We had a baby car in our country just after the war which sold well because new cars of the standard lines were unobtainable. The union bosses, including dictators who had yearned for a Soviet America, struck both the steel industry and General Motors to delay the resumption of production on a theory that otherwise the industry would soon close the gap between supply and demand and lay off all the help. So the union bosses, not the employers, threw the workers onto relief but Murray and Reuther said nothing about an annual wage for their subjects out of their treasuries. At any rate, this post-war puddle-jumper was sprung on people who had been babying their old cars along through the war, and we bought thousands of them. They were a turkey, but for reasons which do not condemn little cars as such.

There is a variety of design in Europe, including three-wheel light trucks for local deliveries and other small chores, which suggests that our industry has become hidebound and fat-headed and needs competition. Certainly our prices are very high and sales at home are meeting resistance in the mind of the owner whose paint and ornaments are dated but still has 50,000 miles of use left in the old job. The problem of keeping up with the Joneses is not as hard as it used to be. Jones himself has reduced his speed.

The three leading European small cheap cars are the German Volkswagen, associated with Hitler in the public memory, although he only adopted it as a political temptation; Citroen, of France, and Italy's Fiat. These are not babies but true small cheap cars with amazing leg room and capacity. Some have the engine aft, which van be dismounted and replaced with a new one at relatively small cost in about an hour. Others have fore-wheel drive, air-cooling and experiments in the mounting to relieve jarring.

The British are still longing for their own old flivver, the baby Austin. Jerry Ames, in the News and Chronicle of London, recently claimed that this was the original of Hitler's Volkswagen. The British, Ames wrote, tried to imitate the big American cars and the continental people horned in with machines "cheap to buy, cheap to run, cheap to service and free from import duty and purchase tax."

"Today," Ames said, "they are successfully entering American markets."

GET OUT AND VOTE

Now that the political campaign is over, one thing remains to be said and that is that people who have the right to vote ought to vote.

The only safeguard against entrenched minority control of government is majority participation in elections by the people. The American theory of government is that government based on the will of the majority is good government because the majority of the people are intelligent.

But when intelligent citizens fail to vote, bad government slips in through the loophole of their neglect.

Every qualified citizen of Ulster county should make it his personal business in determining our public officials. In no other way can the results express the wishes of the people as they are supposed to do and should do.

This local election in which a county judge, district attorney, county treasurer, coroner, mayor and alderman-at-large of the City of Kingston and supervisors and aldermen are to be chosen concerns every citizen.

The right of voting in this election is one of the great privileges of American citizenship. Your duty to vote is an obligation of citizenship.

The percentage of votes cast by citizens who took the time off to register in past years has been very low.

Of the people who go to the polls, a very low percentage take time to vote on proposed amendments to the State Constitution. The result is that a small minority can determine the fate of proposals affecting all the people of the state.

A check of the ten proposed amendments and the proposition, which will appear at the head of the ballot tomorrow, shows that Amendment One if approved would authorize the state to borrow up to 750 million dollars for highway construction and repair. Amendment Two, if it passes, will permit the Legislature to increase public housing subsidies from the present level of 25 million dollars a year to 34 million dollars. Housing subsidies, once contracted, are payable for 50 years.

While an exact dollar value cannot be placed on the other amendments, they are all important to every citizen. They affect the voting laws, the state forest preserve, assessment of real estate, local debt, sewer system construction, whether or not certain judges may hold outside jobs and the appointment of temporary judges.

The issue of the candidates and the question of the amendments and the proposition will be in the hands of the people tomorrow.

Stand up and be counted as a true American citizen.

AMERICA'S OLDEST MEN

Where did the Indians come from? The best opinion, bolstered by discoveries just made, is that they came from Asia, by way of Bering Strait.

The gap between America and Asia is partly filled by the Aleutian Islands, those windswept outposts where some of our men were stationed during the war. These would make it possible for kayaks or other primitive boats to feel their way cautiously across the water gap to the American continent. On a clear day the American islands are clearly visible from the Asiatic. Still, what brave folks those first explorers must have been! It took courage to sail a stormy sea in flimsy boats, not knowing where they were going or what they might find.

Archaeologists along the Alaskan border have found 8,000 objects of nine different civilizations, many of them related to those in Eastern Siberia. There the Chukchee and Koyak tribes bear some resemblance to the Eskimos.

The new finds cannot yet be dated except by wild guesses. They are not startling in character—stone scrapers, arrowheads and flakers. Still, they are the oldest traces of civilization found anywhere in North America.

THE STRUGGLE FOR RAW MATERIALS

The basic error of American thinking since 1943 has been that Soviet Russia was most concerned with the conquest of Western Europe. Our high political as well as military command have based their concepts of war and diplomacy upon this hypothesis despite the historic fact that Soviet Russia, since 1917, has without deviation or diversion indicated that its major interest has been Asia and secondarily Africa.

The reason is that in relationship to historic forces, Russian thinking is orthodox. The Kremlin is building the largest empire known to history; it is following the classic line of empire building which is to increase the supplies of food and raw materials. Soviet Russia has no need to try to digest 200,000,000 indigestible Western Europeans, who, for centuries, have been short of food and raw materials and have expanded over every ocean, at great cost of life and wealth, in search of these commodities.

In Asia, Soviet Russia can find everything to make the Soviet Universal State entirely self-sufficient, and Soviet Russia has built her enormous submarine fleet to keep open the lanes of commerce in the Pacific and Indian Oceans which the Kremlin seeks to dominate not so much in war as for commerce, for the movement of bulk goods in vessels in the 20th century as Britain did in the 18th and 19th centuries.

The stimulation of the Egypt-Israel fracas, the stimulation of Afghan-Pathan-Pakistan conflicts have, of course, political overtones and serve to lessen the effectiveness of American policy centering in NATO. But primarily what Russia achieved by becoming Egypt's ally and protector is that the long historic struggle to escape from the Black Sea through the Dardanelles has been achieved. Soviet Russia will before long be a factor in Suez Canal affairs and all the current denials are meaningless because the course of history is relentless and denials are often like dead flowers which still look somewhat alive.

If the Soviet Universal State can use Egypt as a base to eliminate not only Israel but the Western Powers from the Middle East and North Africa, the balance of forces, the balance of food supply and raw materials, the balance of power will be radically altered.

If we accept General Douglas MacArthur's philosophic thesis that man has reached the period when war as an instrument of political power has ceased to be available because the conqueror can no longer avail himself of any fruits of conquest, it is easier to understand the Russian strategy, which is to reduce the authority and power of the West without fighting a war.

By this process, Soviet Russia has added to the Soviet Universal State, as an integral part or a sphere of influence, China, part of Korea, most of Indo-China, Tibet, India, Afghanistan, Mongolia, Tannu Tuva, and has made inroads upon Burma, Malaya and Indonesia. Having reached the Indian Ocean, which Disraeli secured for Great Britain through the Suez Canal, the Kremlin has moved politically upon Egypt and the Middle East. Utillizing old and new techniques of "friendship," Soviet Russia and India, working in harmony, will bring into their fold the anti-colonial peoples of these areas. Western resistance is so negligible.

The next step should be Japan, although Japan is no longer essential to Russia, for the same reason that Western Europe is not, namely, that Japan can supply no foodstuffs or raw materials to the larder of the Soviet Universal State. Japan's greatest value, as is Germany's greatest value, is a capacity for competent industrialization which could be utilized if the cost were not too great. The West, particularly the United States, is handling Japan so offensively that it would not at all be surprising if Japan voluntarily fell in the Russian orbit. The treatment of Minister of Foreign Affairs Mamoru Shigemitsu in this country was so thoughtless that its consequences may be tragic.

What this all sums up to is that the hypothesis that Soviet Russia seeks to conquer Europe, so surely accepted at Teheran (1943) and carried forward at Yalta (1945), has not proved out by 1955. On the contrary, the past 12 years have substantiated the theory most emphasized by Lenin that Europe could be conquered by way of Asia. In pursuit of this doctrine, Soviet Russia permits nothing to stand in the way and therefore it seeks the elimination of Israel as an unnecessary Western enclave in Asia.

That Body of Yours

FIBROSITIS

One of the most common causes of aches and pains around the joints and in the muscles is the condition known as "fibrositis" but it is difficult to tell just how often it occurs because the various countries define it in different ways. For example, during World War 2, rheumatologists in America were startled when British authorities estimated that 70 per cent of rheumatic cases admitted to a British Army Hospital were fibrositis. On the other hand, reports from United States Army Hospitals reported cases of fibrositis being as three to five per cent. No single cause has yet been determined and no one knows exactly what it is.

The areas most commonly affected by the aches and pains of fibrositis are the neck, shoulder and shoulder blades, the lower back, buttocks and the chest wall. Some research workers have stressed the fact that fibrositis may cause soreness and pain in the muscular walls of the abdomen but others feel that pain of unknown origin in the abdomen should not be disposed of as fibrositis of abdominal muscles until more is known of this condition.

The one good thing about fibrositis is that it can trouble a person on or off for years and yet does not produce any deformity or even great disability. With fibrositis there may be some involvement of the protective sheaths around tendons and the little bursas or cushions that are to be found around some of our joints. The one most likely to give trouble is under the muscle that runs over the top of the shoulder.

A person with fibrositis is likely to suffer from sore muscles after his first tennis, baseball or bowling game of the season. Injury is considered a common cause of fibrositis. It may be due to a single happening or to repeated strain over a long period. It is common among taxi drivers, porters and those carrying heavy weights in the upper back region. Fibrositis in the arms and hands has been described in gardeners, locomotive firemen and bus conductors; in the lower back in bus drivers, miners, policemen, stokers and milkmen.

There would seem to be no doubt that exposure to cold, wet, drafts, and sudden changes in temperature or weather can bring on an attack and some people with a tendency to fibrositis avoid working in the cooler, damper atmosphere of the basements of their homes or in air-conditioned rooms.

All these sorenesses and aching of the muscles, like those of arthritis, tend to be worse after the person sits awhile or lies in bed, and tend to clear away when the persons gets up and walks around. Most persons with fibrositis do not require treatment of any serious type. Most of them never do anything about it; some will take an occasional tablet of aspirin or soak in a hot bath, or get some massage or exercise a bit.

"The Natives Are Getting Restless"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington—(NEA)—Pretty Barbara Eisenhower, wife of Ike's son, Maj. John Eisenhower, is as careful a buyer of clothes as her mother-in-law, Mamie. With three growing kids and increasing social responsibilities, Barbara keeps a sharp eye on the family budget.

Other day, for example, Barbara stepped into a plush women's store here in town. She spotted a beautiful cocktail dress, but when the salesgirl told her the price, she shook her head.

"It's just what I want, but it would be too extravagant on a major's salary."

RED STANLEY, the genial chief bartender at the Gettysburg Hotel, where correspondents and official visitors will stay, isn't about to be aloof to his White House party customers. The speciality of the bar is a giant old-fashioned cocktail. He stirs up a mean Gibson, too. It's great apple country around there, and Red is proud of the local apple jack he serves.

THERE ARE SOME exotic foods which you just can't get at a restaurant or even at a big dinner. Like sambal badjak, a red-hot Indonesian sauce which would take the fur off a Mexican's tongue. Or ajam odor, chicken cooked in thick spice sauce; pisang goreng, bananas baked in a heavy candied gravy, and sajoer djagoeng, a corn soup which you wouldn't mind serving for dessert.

That's the menu Mrs. Hari Kruithof, wife of a Dutch World Bank official, served to an intimate group of bank and embassy people the other night. She cooked everything herself, too.

Excuse for the party was the arrival of a jar of sambal badjak from Indonesia, the only thing Mrs. Kruithof didn't cook. But who needs an excuse to serve food like that?

WHEN IKE ARRIVES at his farm in Gettysburg, Pa., he is sure to get all the privacy he needs.

Citizens of the town have agreed to give the White House family the aloof treatment. They feel it's up to them to make sure the President's Gettysburg convalescence is unbothered by rubberneckers, sightseers or nosey townspeople.

Civic leaders also have heard that the reason why the Eisenhowers like Denver so much is because people there tend to leave them alone and do not make a fuss every time they see Mamie on the street or the First Family leaving church. Gettysburg will try to follow the same pattern.

DETROIT HAS shown this town something new in the way of parties. A few nights ago executives from General Motors Truck Division came down from Michigan to entertain 2500 members of the American Trucking Association during their annual convention.

Party started with cocktails and such hors d'oeuvres as oysters Rockefeller, imported cheese and caviar. Dinner featured shrimp-crabmeat cocktails, giant slabs of roast beef, three kinds of wine and a songfest by the Air Force choir and opera star Marguerite Piazza.

Then they rolled up the rugs and danced to all hours.

Estimated tab for the blowout: $60,000.

MOST DELIGHTFUL news White House correspondents have had in years is the chance that Ike might spend some time in Key West, Fla., during his recovery.

The vacations which former President Truman spent on the naval base there were among the most enjoyable times reporters ever had. The base has the best swimming pool in the state. The fishing is great. And the hospitality is tops.

If Ike goes down there, it will be the best-covered vacation in White House history, probably.

Criticize Appellate Court For 'Left Wing' Decisions

It could mean that only after an an act of sabotage had occurred and the damage had been done to the ship could a trial with the proper evidence be held to eliminate the seaman from his job.

Many Americans will not think this is giving enough weight to the requirements of the armed services in wartime or to the security of the United States or to the fate of the soldiers and sailors aboard the ships or to the American troops already at the battlefront whose success might depend on cargoes of war supplies being delivered promptly instead of being subject to delays and sabotage.

The two judges appear to have swallowed hook, line and sinker the "left wing" philosophy today on security risks and the propaganda line of "The Fund for the Republic," which is using millions of dollars to propagandize the country in behalf of the same peculiar concept of so-called "constitutional rights."

The two judges quote approvingly from references to a few cases in which some early rulings on security risks were reconsidered by government boards. The implication is that these cases—a few of thousands—make it desirable to overhaul the whole system. It's like saying that because acquittals occur in some criminal cases the grand jury system should be abolished.

THE COURT'S opinion accepts moreover the current distortion of the words "due process." This term usually refers to proceedings in court trials and has not until recently been invoked to interfere with the right of the executive agencies of the government to decide who shall be hired or who shall be permitted to enter government property or sail on ships operating for the government.

If the "left wing" concept of "due process" should be accepted, the government's hands would be tied and it would become necessary to hold trials of indefinite length before the government could keep a seaman off a ship even though the government is convinced he has communist connections.

This is not the view which the Supreme Court of the United States has upheld in the past when it proclaimed the doctrine of a "clear and present danger"—namely that it isn't necessary for the government of the United States to wait till the communist conspiracy has been consummated and subversion has been successful before taking steps to protect the national security.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Bonn, Germany — European producers are bargaining into a field which American automobile makers explored, exploited and abandoned long ago. This stuffy language is the best I can manage at the moment to barge into the subject of the cheap, light automobile which the American industry has rejected as an illusion of the uninformed.

About two years ago, K. T. Keller, of Chrysler, one of our giants, impatiently instructed me that, dammit man, weight has little to do with the cost of a car. Steel is the heavy component of the shiny new car, but one of the cheapest, and labor is the principal component of the cost. All right, but just the same, the Europeans are actually spawning cheap light cars. The common man of Europe, the artisan, the white-collar man, is graduating from the bike to the motor-bike and from the motor-bike to a little car which may be little more than an enclosed motorcycle. This is someting new in his life. In Italy, it came so unexpectedly that he has gone wild and drives madly with no muffler.

Many of the Italians have just reached the motorcycle stage, but the Germans seem to be skipping that and going from the bike to a variety of novelties, including plastic bubbles on wheels. Some have only three wheels, but four seems to be the practical minimum. They are little heavier than toys, they look like the blister of a helicopter and the smallest carry only two or two and the baby, with one adult passenger in line behind the driver. Their speed is all the traffic can stand in reasonable safety, but they are weak on hills. More power will be a fairly simple problem once the designs are fixed.

Not many Americans under 50 will remember the Metz, Durant, the Maxwell or even the ugly but ever-reliable flivver. There were other little bugs in that phase which failed for reasons too complex for this discussion but not because they were too light and small for the kind of roads we have now. However, the roads of their own day did give them a very hard time and certainly have something to do with the death of their type. European roads now are better than the American roads of those days, but the American roads today are so good that these new European types should have no trouble. The variety is so great that some of the innovations are sure to fail for competitive reasons even though they have fundamental virtures.

Swiss secondary roads are bad and Britain has, in a rough manner of putting it, no roads at all to accommodate a tremendous burden of traffic. Hitler's great through roads, a legacy from his WPA or CCC, give Germany an asset for this new phase of their manufacturing industry. They start with highways which other countries can't match, although France has had good military routes for generations and has put through super-highways in recent years.

We had a baby car in our country just after the war which sold well because new cars of the standard lines were unobtainable. The union bosses, including dictators who had yearned for a Soviet America, struck both the steel industry and General Motors to delay the resumption of production on a theory that otherwise the industry would soon close the gap between supply and demand and lay off all the help. So the union bosses, not the employers, threw the workers onto relief but Murray and Reuther said nothing about an annual wage for their subjects out of their treasuries. At any rate, this post-war puddle-jumper was sprung on people who had been babying their old cars along through the war, and we bought thousands of them. They were a turkey, but for reasons which do not condemn little cars as such.

There is a variety of design in Europe, including three-wheel light trucks for local deliveries and other small chores, which suggests that our industry has become hidebound and fat-headed and needs competition. Certainly our prices are very high and sales at home are meeting resistance in the mind of the owner whose paint and ornaments are dated but still has 50,000 miles of use left in the old job. The problem of keeping up with the Joneses is not as hard as it used to be. Jones himself has reduced his speed.

The three leading European small cheap cars are the German Volkswagen, associated with Hitler in the public memory, although he only adopted it as a political temptation; Citroen, of France, and Italy's Fiat. These are not babies but true small cheap cars with amazing leg room and capacity. Some have the engine aft, which van be dismounted and replaced with a new one at relatively small cost in about an hour. Others have fore-wheel drive, air-cooling and experiments in the mounting to relieve jarring.

The British are still longing for their own old flivver, the baby Austin. Jerry Ames, in the News and Chronicle of London, recently claimed that this was the original of Hitler's Volkswagen. The British, Ames wrote, tried to imitate the big American cars and the continental people horned in with machines "cheap to buy, cheap to run, cheap to service and free from import duty and purchase tax."

"Today," Ames said, "they are successfully entering American markets."

HEALTH FOR ALL

RX. LOVE

"Love, to be taken regularly in large doses." Those were the words on the prescription blank the doctor handed to Jimmy's mother. Jimmy had been suffering from frequent stomach upsets.

Children have stomach disorders caused by emotional upsets, just as adults do. Many of these illnesses, doctors believe, begin because the children do not get enough love and are surrounded by an atmosphere of irritability, impatience, and anger.

Many cases of infantile colic are also thought to be largely emotional in origin. Colic frequently develops in babies whose mothers are cross and impatient. A baby's greatest need is for the sense of security that affectionate mothering gives him. When a baby becomes "colicky," he may be expressing his feeling of insecurity. More affectionate and patient mothering is often the best remedy.

In older children, "bottled up" emotions may also show themselves in real physical illnesses. Perhaps the child may complain only of "knots in my stomach" or "cramps." But peptic ulcer and ulcerative colitis are not uncommon. Children who develop these conditions may be very well-behaved youngsters who are unable to express their angry feelings. Their troubles are often traced to the fact that their need for security and love was not met in infancy.

Jimmy's trouble started the spring he became a pitcher for the Tigers, his little league team. He was a good pitcher. But he began to be afraid to play for fear of losing. He felt that his parents were proud of him and loved him only when he won. So the stomach upsets arrived with every game.

The doctor was able to recognize the emotional basis of Jimmy's trouble. He was able to show the parents that their good little boy who was so eager to please was not a happy child. They learned to be more patient with his boyish failures, and to show him that their love did not depend on his behavior. Jimmy's stomach trouble was cured by love.

Salem. Ore (AP)—This capital city of Oregon has too many bad spellers to risk naming a street Sibelius, the city planning commission decided. B. O. Sundman after the Finnish composer Jean of Helsingfors, Finland, asked the commission to use that name for a street. Commissioner Robert Powell said the commission recently changed the name of a street which residents found too difficult to spell. And even that one was easier to spell than Sibelius.

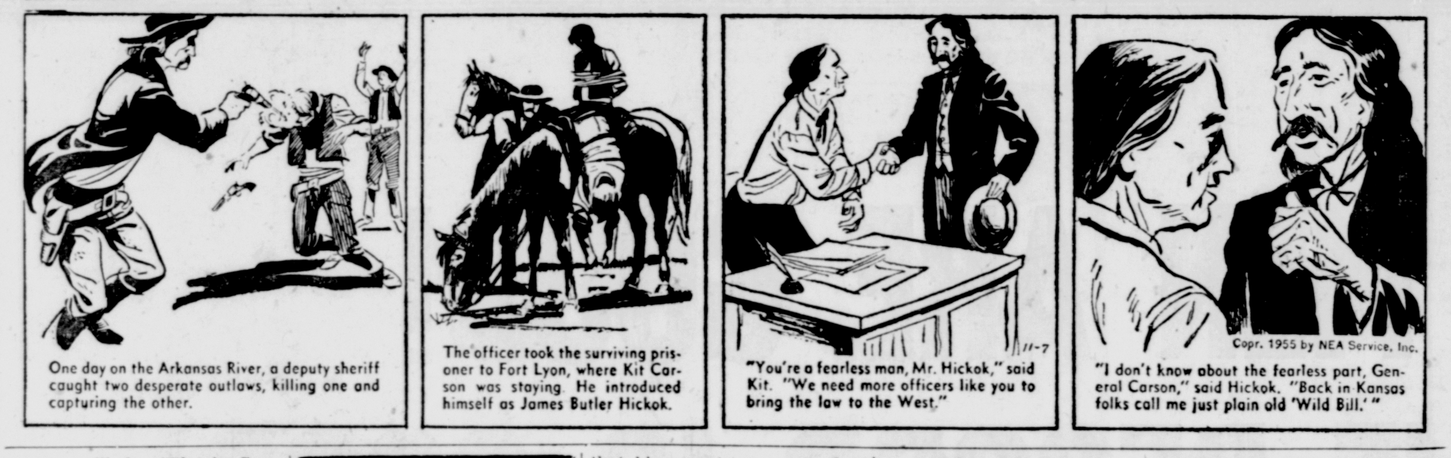
KIT CARSON — By Russ Winterbotham and Ed Kudlaty



One day on the Arkansas River, a deputy sheriff caught two desperate outlaws, killing one and capturing the other.

The officer took the surviving prisoner to Fort Lyon, where Kit Carson was staying. He introduced himself as James Butler Hickok.

"You're a fearless man, Mr. Hickok," said Kit. "We need more officers like you to bring the law to the West."

"I don't know about the fearless part, General Carson," said Hickok. "Back in Kansas folks call me just plain old 'Wild Bill.'"

KHS News

(This column is written each week by members of the Journalism Club of Kingston High School).

PRISMA DRIVE—At the close of school Thursday the annual Prisma magazine drive had reached the half-way mark with a total sales of $5,000. Proceeds from this project are used each year for scholarships, both for graduating seniors planning to attend college in the fall and to send one or more junior girls to Europe for the summer under the American Field Service Plan.

Top salesmen for the first 7 days of the drive included Linda Rider, Penny Johnson, Nancy Silvestri, Julie Garraghan, Mary Jane Palen, Brenda Burton and Karen Trowbridge.

Since the four classes are contesting against each other, the class reporting the largest sales for the day has possession of the large Pinocchio doll for the day. The class turning in the smallest amount of money possesses Zip, the monkey for the day.

So far the freshmen class has led with exception of one day, while the seniors have "owned" Zip for a large share of the time.

Those given the honor to carry Pinocchio for their class have been Joyce Proctor, Penny Johnson, Julie Garraghan, Lucille Clark, Katherine Spinneweber, Michaela Fallon and Joan Peters. Zip has been in the posession of Nancy Silvestri, Catherine Wright, Harriet Diers, Wilhelmina Wiegert, Connie Williams and Shirley Wiegert.

A number of valuable awards are being offered to high salesmen in the magazine drive, which consist of gift certificates usable in various local stores. Besides there are daily prizes for the student turning in the largest sales. The four classes also compete against each other and their progress is recorded on a large thermometer chart in the front corridor.

The drive is conducted through the home rooms and each room has its Prisma agent. These include: Hall A, Nancy Stone, Arlene Vollmer, Marie Schoeps, Linda Sanford, Beverly Sleight, and Ann Smith; Hall B, Letha Lake, Katherine Komosa, Anne Harvey, Beth Kletche, and Alice Ruger; Hall D, Denise Vladick and Sandra Tremper; Hall E, Bonnie McElrath and Coleen McGowan.

For the smaller home rooms the agents are Annette Brown, Harriet Diers, Mary Coffey, Shirley Carlson, May Eng, Mary Ellsworth, Joan Kolodzewski, Karen Lane, Sally Bunten, Patricia Carl, Inge Dedy, Patricia Gallagher, Hilda Kelly, Jean Kelder, Joyce LaGuardia, Barbara Keyser, Sheila Langley and Arlene Munson.

Others acting as agents are Linda Flax, Elaine Schwartz, Carol Rylance, Barbara Seidel, Mary Sos, Elizabeth Taylor, Maryann Tirc, Delia Christiana, Gail Conlin, Karen Byrne, Barbara Ann Carney, Carol Amato, Jacqueline Avery, Carol Crosby, Mary Coughlin, Janet Fochi, Jean Hasbrouck, Mary Joan Palen, Judy Clark, Patricia Thurin, Margaret Genther, Dorothy Eckert, Sandra Elliott, Betty Bunce, Patricia Brishois, Barbara Auringer, Joan Avery Shirley Ziros, Joan Wooley, Linda Rider, Janet Riehl, Diane Post and Nancy Natoli.

Relyea Refutes Political Figures About Hurley

Supervisor Charles Relyea of the town of Hurley has taken issue with a letter sent out by his Democratic opponent in which an enclosure purports to give a financial statement relative to town affairs.

"The statement is misleading in a great many particulars," said Relyea. "At the outset there is a declaration that the town expenses have increased '$50,000 per year' whereas the increase has not been $50,000 a year but over a five-year period as shown by the statement."

RELYEA STATED that included in this amount of $50,000 there are several items over which the town board has no control, such as quota of county charges, county highway charges, quota for stenographer expenses and items concerning fire districts. The fire districts were created by a vote of the people and not by town officials and in fact the larger portion of the item of $50,000 is made up of items over which the town has no control. For example there is an item of $350 for the West Hurley fire district in 1950, whereas in that year there was no fire house, equipment or any other tangible portion of the fire department in the West Hurley area. Now the West Hurley fire department has an outstanding fire house equipped with modern fire equipment. "Incidentally," said Relyea, "the two fire districts were established on the vote of the people who demanded same."

WITH RESPECT to the budget items, there is always a public notice printed and neither the Democratic candidate for supervisor or any of his associates appeared to voice opposition to the budget items, Relyea said.

Relyea pointed out that during the past few years, as everyone knows, there has been a marked increase in the cost of living, cost of equipment and the increased tax rate in the Town of Hurley has been only slight in comparison to other towns, and, in fact, the tax rate of the town of Hurley is the lowest in Ulster county. In conclusion Relyea said he and his associates on the town board, based on their experience, have endeavored to give the people the best possible government and he would endeavor to use his best efforts to continue along these lines.

Will Ask $500,000 For Correction Plan

Elmira, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP)—Thomas J. McHugh, state commissioner of correction, says he plans to ask the 1956 Legislature for "substantial" funds to expand the department's research program.

McHugh said Saturday he would also ask for $500,000 to finance outdoor camps for youth rehabilitation.

The commissioner was here for an address at a 10th anniversary dinner of the Elmira Reception Center.

McHugh did not say how much money he would ask for the research program. But he said an "ideal" program calling for a staff of 38 and a budget of $143,236 had already been recommended to the State Youth Commission.

He said the department was presently working with a research staff of 17 and a budget of $61,346.

McHugh said he would ask for more money and a greater staff because "we feel confident that the climate is right, finally, for substantial assistance."

Annual Diabetes Detection Drive

The eighth annual Diabetes Detection Drive will be observed during Diabetes Week, November 13-19, under the chairmanship of Dr. Curtis P. Bight. His appointment as chairman of the Diabetes Detection Drive was announced today by Dr. Fred S. Carr, president of the Ulster County Medical Society, which is cooperating in the nationwide program sponsored by the American Diabetes Association.

DIABETES WEEK, which is held the third week in November just before Thanksgiving, marks the renewal of the nationwide search for an estimated one million American men, women and children who have diabetes but are not aware of it.

In accepting the appointment, Dr. Bight emphasized the importance of early discovery of the undetected diabetes.

"Our goal is to find the undetected diabetics as soon as possible so that they may receive proper medical attention and thus escape the serious complications associated with neglect of this chronic disease," he said.

Dr. Bight stated that adequate facilities will be provided to assure diabetes detection tests for every person in the community who wanted it.

"The tests will be made free of charge," he added.

In addition to the more than one million known diabetics in this country under treatment, there are nearly as many unknown diabetics. In other words, one person in every 75 has diabetes, either known or unknown.

"Diabetes is a chronic ailment in which the body cannot make full use of all the foods that one eats, such as the sugars and starches," Dr. Bight said. "The pancreas in the human body does not secrete enough insulin to turn these foods into energy or to store them for future use. These foods increase the blood sugar until the sugar passes through the kidneys into the urine. Too much sugar in the blood and urine is a sign of diabetes."

HE LISTED the most usual symptoms of the disease as excessive thirst, constant hunger, frequent urination, loss of weight, severe itching, easy tiring, failing vision and slow healing of cuts and scratches.

However, he pointed out that some people may have diabetes without any symptoms.

Dr. Bight said anyone can develop diabetes at any age, but that the most likely targets are those overweight, over 40 years old, or related to diabetics. For a woman past 40 years of age, the chances are about a third higher than for a man, he added.

The youthful Senator and World War II hero will speak on the need for medical research in the fight against cerebral palsy.

Will Ask $500,000 For Correction Plan

Elmira, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP)—Thomas J. McHugh, state commissioner of correction, says he plans to ask the 1956 Legislature for "substantial" funds to expand the department's research program.

McHugh said Saturday he would also ask for $500,000 to finance outdoor camps for youth rehabilitation.

The commissioner was here for an address at a 10th anniversary dinner of the Elmira Reception Center.

McHugh did not say how much money he would ask for the research program. But he said an "ideal" program calling for a staff of 38 and a budget of $143,236 had already been recommended to the State Youth Commission.

He said the department was presently working with a research staff of 17 and a budget of $61,346.

McHugh said he would ask for more money and a greater staff because "we feel confident that the climate is right, finally, for substantial assistance."

Annual Diabetes Detection Drive

The eighth annual Diabetes Detection Drive will be observed during Diabetes Week, November 13-19, under the chairmanship of Dr. Curtis P. Bight. His appointment as chairman of the Diabetes Detection Drive was announced today by Dr. Fred S. Carr, president of the Ulster County Medical Society, which is cooperating in the nationwide program sponsored by the American Diabetes Association.

DIABETES WEEK, which is held the third week in November just before Thanksgiving, marks the renewal of the nationwide search for an estimated one million American men, women and children who have diabetes but are not aware of it.

In accepting the appointment, Dr. Bight emphasized the importance of early discovery of the undetected diabetes.

"Our goal is to find the undetected diabetics as soon as possible so that they may receive proper medical attention and thus escape the serious complications associated with neglect of this chronic disease," he said.

Dr. Bight stated that adequate facilities will be provided to assure diabetes detection tests for every person in the community who wanted it.

"The tests will be made free of charge," he added.

In addition to the more than one million known diabetics in this country under treatment, there are nearly as many unknown diabetics. In other words, one person in every 75 has diabetes, either known or unknown.

"Diabetes is a chronic ailment in which the body cannot make full use of all the foods that one eats, such as the sugars and starches," Dr. Bight said. "The pancreas in the human body does not secrete enough insulin to turn these foods into energy or to store them for future use. These foods increase the blood sugar until the sugar passes through the kidneys into the urine. Too much sugar in the blood and urine is a sign of diabetes."

HE LISTED the most usual symptoms of the disease as excessive thirst, constant hunger, frequent urination, loss of weight, severe itching, easy tiring, failing vision and slow healing of cuts and scratches.

However, he pointed out that some people may have diabetes without any symptoms.

Dr. Bight said anyone can develop diabetes at any age, but that the most likely targets are those overweight, over 40 years old, or related to diabetics. For a woman past 40 years of age, the chances are about a third higher than for a man, he added.

Kicked Out of Heaven

By FRANK TRIPP

It was a realistic fantasy that ended too soon. It didn't give me time to greet all of my friends. I was kicked out of Heaven and my immediate fear is that I'll never get in again.

It came a night when I sadly awaited word that a dear newspaper friend had passed on. So the dream was all about old newspaper pals.

Everybody wanted to know how things were on earth. It was like a man from Mars granting a press conference.

"Postman's holiday," I thought. "Here I am 'mid streets of gold and the first thing I do is rush to a newsroom. Wonder if this really is Heaven?"

* * *

MATT RICHARDSON wanted to know about Jim Oims, the Chinese laundryman philosopher in his column.

"Isn't Jim here?" I asked.

"Haven't seen him yet," said Matt.

This led to a new appreciation of Heaven. It seems that up there they don't rush around looking folks up, as I'd planned to do.

There's no hurry; you're there forever, not just passing through on a three score and ten year stopover. There'll be plenty of time.

How swell, I thought. Nobody to borrow a buck, to take out to lunch, to get out of jail.

* * *

HEAVEN'S newspaper office was a dead ringer for the old Elmira Gazette.

There was my old Fay-Shoals typewriter on a shelf nailed to the wall; Frank Gannett's cranky Oliver and Doc Copeland's double keyboard Smith Premier; both on those discarded sewing machine bases.

How they got into Heaven after the hellfire we wished upon them puzzled me, but there they were—and nobody had fixed the cap "I" that I wore out ballyhooing David B. Hill's theme song, "I am a Democrat." He owned The Gazette before Gannett came along.

"'Been reading your stuff," piped Jack Calkins. "You've sure got a big cap 'I' on the machine you're using now."

* * *

IN AND OUT walked town characters, souses and jail birds, which confused me equally. Guess they were not such bad eggs after all.

Charlie Stagg was taking the wire. As I stood there, over it came the happy news not to recondition the old Oliver yet; that my stricken friend would survive for a long time.

"You're right on top of things," I said to Charlie.

"Oh yes," he replied, "this wire goes straight to Headquarters. We always know who is coming long ahead of you."

Rossie is doing sports; Coxey Leyden, politics; Joe Geer is still borrowing tobacco.

"Who is city editor?" I asked.

"We don't have any," said Roy Elmendorf.

Then I knew it had to be Heaven.

* * *

NOBODY WAS HURRYING to make a deadline. "You see, it's like this," explained Roy Smith, the rushingest reporter I ever knew. "There's no hurry up here.

"We go to press when we get enough stuff in type. We have no ads; nobody needs anything. We have no obits; nobody dies. They've all done that. We have no legals, 'cause there are no lawyers here. (That's what he said).

"We don't rush around looking up newcomers with a welcome wagon, 'cause they'll always be right here, and we'll meet 'em some century."

* * *

ROY WENT ON: "With eternity as the time clock it's easy in Heaven to make a pal of everybody; so we don't get lonesome for bosom buddies. We'll meet sometime."

He looked serious and said, "By the way, how did you get into Heaven? Charlie didn't get a flash about your coming—and we rarely get a columnist.

"You sneaked in, didn't you? You didn't pay your passage; Nobody grieves for you; nobody misses you. You've got to go back and come in the hard way. You've got to earn Heaven."

"You mean I'm kicked out of Heaven!"

"Yeah," said Roy. "That's the hell of it."

Then I woke up.

Retired Fieldmen Story Told by Insurance Firm

Sixteen retired fieldmen of the Kingston district of the Prudential Insurance Company are the subject of an article in the company's current issue of its magazine, "Record." The magazine is received monthly by 20,000 of the company's district fieldmen throughout most of the United States.

The article, captioned "Kingston's Fountain of Youth," tells how these men have found a very workable way of keeping their youthful zip and enthusiasm.

Photographs, which supplement the story on the club, show Bob Phinney, Ralph Dewey, Arthur Fronefield, William Van Wynen, Pat Murphy, current president, Lew Robinson, Levi Miller, Hirschell Mayes and Christian Metzger.

THE FIELDMEN established the club in 1932 to keep active friendships which spanned most of their adult lives, friendships which they reasoned should not end with retirement. The group meets regularly every other month to have dinner and discuss business. Officers are elected each January and attendance at the meetings is generally close to 100 per cent.

Members exchange ideas on new hobbies; new projects to tackle. Several are now active in local government and civic affairs.

MRS. DONALD DOLAN

(Photo Workshop)

Howard-Dolan Nuptials Are Held

Miss Jane Howard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Howard of 202 Smith avenue became the bride of Donald Dolan, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Vincent Dolan of Sawkill, Saturday, Nov. 5, at a Nuptial Mass in St. Joseph's Church. The Rev. James Keating performed the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Frank Rafferty was at the organ and Miss Marguerite Flaherty sang, "Mother Beloved," "Ave Maria," and "Panis Angelicus."

The church was decorated with blue and white mums.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and she wore a gown of hand-clipped Chantilly lace, fashioned with a fitted bodice, square neckline, long tapered sleeves, and a full length accordion pleated skirt terminating in a sweep train. The neckline was appliqued with lace medallions re-embroidered with iridescent paillettes. Her French illusion finger-tip veil was secured to a rose point bridal cap trimmed with seed pearls and iridescent paillettes.

The bride carried orchids and stephanotis on a prayer book.

Miss Dolores Misove was the maid of honor and she wore a gown of peacock blue crystallette, fashioned with a molded long torso, portrait neckline, tiny sleeves and a bouffant waltz length skirt. She wore a matching pillbox headpiece with a circular tulle veil.

The flower girl was Miss Mary Dolan of Hurley and she wore a gown of white crystallette, in Kate Greenaway fashion, with a fitted bodice, puffed sleeves and a bouffant skirt worn over hoops. Ruby red velveteen banded the neckline and the net dust ruffle and she wore a heart-shaped velveteen plateau hat edged with a pleated net border.

John Rogan, cousin of the bridegroom, was the best man. Ushers included Kenneth Dolan of Sawkill and Robert Barnhart of Flatbush road.

The child ringbearer was a cousin, Michael Dolan of Sawkill.

A reception was held at William's Lake Hotel for approximately 100 guests.

The bride chose as her going-away ensemble a green tweed dress with brown accessories.

Miss Howard graduated from Kingston High School in 1952 and was in the employ of IBM in Kingston.

The bridegroom was graduated from Kingston High School in 1951 and after service with the U. S. Army, was associated with the Star Brick Co.

The couple left for a wedding journey to California where they will reside for an indefinite period of time.

Convicted for Assault

Naha, Okinawa, Nov. 7 (AP)—A U. S. Marine court martial today convicted Marine Pfc. Raymond E. Parker of raping a 7-year-old Okinawan girl and sentenced him to life imprisonment. The nine-man board of officers deliberated only 30 minutes to reach a conviction of the 21-year-old Memphis, Tenn., Negro. It reached the necessary three-fourths vote for life imprisonment after another hour and a half of discussion.

Nixons Visit Teachers

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—Vice President and Mrs. Nixon visited their daughters' public school today and kept commenting on the "magnificent job" the teachers are doing. "I've got a great admiration for anybody who can handle a bunch of kids like this—it's work, you know, to handle two for an hour," Nixon told Miss Muriel O'Malia, the teacher of his younger daughter.

REALLY NOT "PRUDISH"

"I am a young business woman in the early thirties. I live alone in a three-room apartment. I have dates with men friends quite often. When I return home from a date, the young man sees me to my apartment door and usually expects to be asked in. Will you please tell me how I can tell a man that he cannot come in without seeming prudish?"

It certainly is not prudish to show the young man that you have been well brought up.

A Flat Tire

Dear Mrs. Post: The other evening while I was on my way to visit a friend who lives in the suburbs, I got a flat tire. As I was not near a garage (and I do not know how to change a tire myself) I pulled over to the side of the road and flagged a passing car. A man stopped and changed my tire for me. I thanked him of course for doing this, but I would like to know if I should have given him a tip.

Answer: You certainly should have offered him what it would have cost you in a garage.

Young Greeting Old

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it, or is is not proper, for a teen-ager to greet an older person first when meeting on the street? I have taught my children always to greet an older person first, but it seems in this community to which we have just moved, young people wait for the older person to speak first. Which is correct?

Answer: For the reason that the sight of the young is so much more alert than that of the old, it is obviously best that the young not only make the first move, but also announce themselves when doing so.

Details for a home wedding and description of flowers, clothes and ceremony are included in leaflet E-8, "Today's Typical Weddings." Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. Cyclists Injured Evading Police

A motorcyclist, chased by police, and a 14-year-old girl, riding with him, were injured when the cycle upset in the uptown area Sunday.

A police report at 12:55 a. m., Sunday indicated that Officers John Crespino and Joseph Keller sought to pick up James Winnie, 22, of Kerhonkson, on warrants, and Winnie attempted to get away on the cycle.

THE WARRANTS charged speeding and reckless driving. The officers attempted to stop Winnie at Albany and Clinton avenues, from where he led them on a chase to Pearl street extension.

Winnie was taken to Kingston Hospital for treatment of injuries of the face and stomach, and the girl, Helen Bunten, of 38 Howland avenue, was treated at the Benedictine Hospital for head injuries. She was released yesterday, and Winnie's condition was reported as "good" today at the other hospital.

Police said Winnie also faces a charge of riding the cycle as an unlicensed operator. The cycle was removed from the scene of the mishap by a wrecker.

Until 46 B.C. when Julius Caesar changed the calendar, March was the first month of the year.

The shirt, as developed by designer Digby Morton for Hathaway, is a far cry from the uninspired white blouse. For crosstab button down shirt (left), this designer uses white wool taffeta. He likes the three-quarter length sleeve with buttoned cuff; feels that it is both pretty and practical. Fine, soft, corded velveteen in soft rose (center) makes shirt with round Italian convertible collar. Three-quarter length sleeves have two buttons, are adjustable. The tailored cotton shirt becomes a candidate for after-five wear (right) when it's in a rose-printed broadcloth and is worn with a black velvet skirt. This one is in shades of cherry pink, chartreuse and soft gray-green printed on a white ground.

Nutmeg Election

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 7 (AP)—Thirteen Connecticut communities will elect tomorrow. About half of the million eligible voters in the state can take part. Six cities elect mayors. Incumbents include three Democrats, a Republican, a Socialist and a former Socialist turned Independent. Five towns, all in Fairfield county, choose first selectmen. The posts are now held by five Republicans. The other two cities, Norwich and Hartford, hold non-partisan elections to choose city council members.

Justice and Mercy

Waco, Tex. (AP) — Justice of Peace Don Hall received this note along with a $16.50 check for a speeding violation: "Be thankful to God that he is a little more merciful than you. Sincerely yours, a Punished Sinner."

Merchandise Leaks

Corpus Christi, Tex. (AP)—When a pool of water collected in a residential section police began looking for a water leak. Instead they found two cases of beer and two gum dispensing machines blocking a storm sewer opening. Checking further they found a nearby service station had been burglarized the night before but the operator hadn't missed the merchandise.

NO TANKS WERE included in the demonstration but full-tracks pulled the guns over the frosted, shiny cobblestones in the historic square.

Defense Minister Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov, who took the salutes, made a mild opening address.

Some spectators thought the Soviets were bending over backwards to support their contention they are peaceloving, unaggressive and friendly and thus help their own position at the Big Four foreign ministers' conference in Geneva.

Visits Dulles

Geneva, Nov. 7 (AP)—Erich Ollenhauer, West German Socialist leader, spent 35 minutes with U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles today outlining the German unification views of German Cancellor Konrad Adenauer's political opposition Ollenhauer said after the meeting he discussed the developments in the conference thus far and stated his views on them. These he did not outline to the press.

Car, Grass Fires

Firemen were called to check fires in two automobiles and for one grass fire over the weekend. Engine 1, Central station, answered a call at 2:25 p. m., Sunday to check a fire in the car of Lawrence Plog, 85 West Chester street, caused by an overflow of antifreeze. A call at 12:11 p. m., Saturday was for a fire caused by a short circuit in the car of Robert Millett, 14 Grant street, near 40 Grant street. A short circuit damaged wires. Engine 1 also answered that call. Cornell station and Twaalfskill Hose Company answered the grass fire call in the Chapel street area at 7:34 p. m. Sunday.

Tito Puts

the visit of Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist Party leader Khrushchev last spring.

DULLES SAID he and Tito were agreed that "the German question must be settled gradually, step by step."

It was evident, however, that they did not see eye to eye on all details of the German question, which has deadlocked the Geneva foreign ministers conference. Asked by reporters about methods of settling the probe, the secretary said, "that's another question. We shall see."

INDICATING THEY had made a wide swing through questions besetting the Middle East as well as eastern Europe and Europe generally, Dulles said they also had discussed "how to go about a solution to the situation in the Near East" where Israel and Egypt have been exchanging gunfire.

He added that this discussion was conducted "with particular regard for the fact that President Tito is going to Egypt to visit Col. (Premier Gamal Abdel) Nasser in December."

Tito had been reported planning to postpone his scheduled visit to Egypt in December because of the troubled situation, but this remark indicated Dulles had persuaded him to go ahead with the trip.

'Jungle' Incident

Nice, France, Nov. 7 (AP)—A "blackboard jungle" style melee in a Nice school resulted today in the fining of four students convicted of attacking a philosophy teacher with fire extinguishers. Each of the four—aged 19 to 21—was ordered by a court to pay a fine of 30,000 francs ($85) and 88,032 francs ($250) to the teacher. The philosophy teacher, attacked when he intervened to aid a woman history teacher being heckled by her students, brought no charges, although he was badly burned by chemicals. The Education Ministry pressed the case.

75 New Polio Cases

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP)—Seventy-five new cases of polio were reported in the 57 counties outside New York city during the week ended last Saturday, the State Health Department reported today. That was two more than in the preceding week. The new cases brought to 1,674 the total number of cases reported this year. During the corresponding week last year, 49 cases were reported and the year's total stood at 1,160.

Locusts Attack

Cairo, Egypt, Nov. 7 (AP)—Locusts swarmed over Cairo today in an assault reminiscent of the plagues of Biblical days. They invaded the western part of the city, attacking trees and vegetation. In past years, Egyptian Agriculture Ministry anti-locust squads have destroyed the invaders before they entered the lush Nile delta. But this year's invasion, one of the worst in memory, seems to have got out of hand.

Saugerties Board

to be held by a third party or parties for a 10-year period.

If the proposal is approved by the board, the village would in turn lease the tract for the 10-year period at a figure which would pay off the mortgage with parking meter receipts and after the mortgage is paid the village would accept ownership of the tract.

THE CHAMBER proposal provides for the demolition of the building on the land and this would be included in the cost of the purchase price of the property.

The village would arrange for the leveling, clearing, subbasing and paving. Parking meters would be installed on a pay-as-you-go basis with no capital outlay by the village.

The Chamber suggested that the meters would be set to charge five cents per hour for up to four hours and 25 cents for all day parking.

PRELIMINARY surveys by the Chamber prove that the parking meter receipts would more than pay for the cost of the meters and the annual lease fee charged to pay off the mortgage held by a third party or parties.

The proposal was looked upon favorably by the members of the board and some indicated that the parking area project could be handled within the budget of the village without undue hardship.

Also on the agenda for action by the board will be a proposal by Jack Davis, president of the Barclay Heights Development Corporation which proposes developing 20 acres north of the village known as the Knaust development extension.

THE DEVELOPER plans to build approximately 60 to 70 homes in the area within the village and has asked the village for assistance in furnishing water, streets and sewers for the extension.

Mr. Davis offered to supply the materials of the project and to deed the land for the streets if the village will give assistance with the newly purchased heavy equipment of the village and labor.

MR. DAVIS proposed that the work should be completed over a three year period. The Barclay Heights Corporation plans construction of new homes at an approximate cost of $20,000. The model home proposed would be of the split level type.

A previous proposal by Mr. Davis to the village was offered to the taxpayers of the village at a special referendum on August 2 at which time Mr. Davis asked the village to furnish sewers, water lines and street paving for the proposed development.

THE VOTERS turned down the proposal 455 to 260 which would have required the floating of a $35,000 bond issue to cover the costs of such an installation.

This proposal has also been under study by the board of trustees for the past week to determine whether the village can enter into such an arrangement and be able to keep the labor and equipment costs within the regular budget.

Likewise Mayor Newkirk and Mayor Stang never talked with me about the affairs of the Board of Education.

"I feel that I am speaking for the other members of the Board of Education whose names I have listed above when I say that this unwarranted attempt to bring the Board of Education into politics should not pass unnoticed.

Cyclists Injured Evading Police

A motorcyclist, chased by police, and a 14-year-old girl, riding with him, were injured when the cycle upset in the uptown area Sunday.

A police report at 12:55 a. m., Sunday indicated that Officers John Crespino and Joseph Keller sought to pick up James Winnie, 22, of Kerhonkson, on warrants, and Winnie attempted to get away on the cycle.

THE WARRANTS charged speeding and reckless driving. The officers attempted to stop Winnie at Albany and Clinton avenues, from where he led them on a chase to Pearl street extension.

Winnie was taken to Kingston Hospital for treatment of injuries of the face and stomach, and the girl, Helen Bunten, of 38 Howland avenue, was treated at the Benedictine Hospital for head injuries. She was released yesterday, and Winnie's condition was reported as "good" today at the other hospital.

Police said Winnie also faces a charge of riding the cycle as an unlicensed operator. The cycle was removed from the scene of the mishap by a wrecker.

The shirt, as developed by designer Digby Morton for Hathaway, is a far cry from the uninspired white blouse. For crosstab button down shirt (left), this designer uses white wool taffeta. He likes the three-quarter length sleeve with buttoned cuff; feels that it is both pretty and practical. Fine, soft, corded velveteen in soft rose (center) makes shirt with round Italian convertible collar. Three-quarter length sleeves have two buttons, are adjustable. The tailored cotton shirt becomes a candidate for after-five wear (right) when it's in a rose-printed broadcloth and is worn with a black velvet skirt. This one is in shades of cherry pink, chartreuse and soft gray-green printed on a white ground.

West Resists Spade Lead

North's bid of two no-trump in today's hand may seem very foolish at first glance, but it was actually a very fine choice. It was clear that North would double his vulnerable opponents if he really had a good hand and strength in their suit, so that the bid of two no-trump was bound to mean that he had a different kind of hand.

There would be no need for a "fancy" bid if North held length in the unbid major, for then he would be glad to bid it. Hence, very logically, North's bid meant that he had length and strength in both minor suits and that he wanted South to choose one of the minors.

As it happened, South was not interested in either minor suit. He reached a rather normal contract of four hearts—which only careful defense could beat.

West opened the queen of diamonds, and dummy won with the ace. Declarer got to his hand with the ace of trumps, finessed the queen of clubs, discarded a diamond on the ace of clubs, and ruffed a club. Then he cashed the king of trumps and led another trump to West's queen.

By this time West had only spades left, and the temptation to cash the top spades was very strong. West resisted the temptation because he knew that South held four spades. If West would make the rest, thus fulfilling the contract. (West know about the spades because South couldn't have any more clubs or diamonds, and it was easy to count the trumps).

After coming to this conclusion, West led a low spade. East put up the nine, and South won with the jack. Now South had to lose three spade tricks, and the game contract was defeated.

TO THE PEOPLE,
TOWN OF HURLEY.

The rapid growth of our Town of Hurley has presented problems in health and sanitation, public safety, schools, zoning and taxes.

We, the people who provide the money with our tax dollars should not wait until the situation gets entirely out of hand and excessive expense and taxation is necessary to provide the facilities we need in our Town of Hurley. Our planning must be done now by efficient town officials with the guidance of our citizens in town meetings.

We must be sure that our elected officials are subject only to the orders of the citizens of Hurley . . . that they act for the best interest of our town . . . without thought of political expediency . . . and without dictation from any political faction. Unless we do this now necessary facilities will result in excessive taxation in the future.

I think that all of my friends and neighbors in the Town of Hurley, regardless of political affiliation, think the same way I do about good government. The two party system and home rule is a part of our American heritage. As Americans we are known for our forward thinking and our planning for the future.

Under the present dictatorship and political machine rule we have been denied our opportunities for good government.

I have lived in the Town of Hurley practically all my life. My primary schooling was at West Hurley and I graduated from the Kingston High School. My advanced education was postponed by reason of my service with the United States Marines. I returned to West Hurley from the Pacific theatre of war and married a West Hurley girl. I have two children. Naturally, I want good government in the Town of Hurley . . . and in the whole United States.

My friends, I ask you to vote for me and my Democratic colleagues on Election Day. I pledge to you good government and the return of our town government to the citizens of our town.

Thank you very much for your support.

MARBLETOWN CENTRAL—The October PTF meeting was well attended. The banner which is won by the room having the greatest per cent of parents present was awarded to Mrs. Osterhoudt's 8th grade room. Room mothers were appointed. Before the meeting parents visited the classrooms and conferred with teachers. The book fair was in progress before and after the meeting.

Proceeds from the book fair were approximately $65. This will be added to the fund for shades, drapes or venetian blinds to darken one room for the showing of slides or movie film. The class of '54 started the fund with a donation of $80. Although the children have worked hard, they still need help since it will cost about $250 to equip one room.

The eighth grade English classes who sponsor thh book fair, wish to thank everyone who helped to make the fair a success. They wish especially to thank the parent committee: Mrs. Cloyd Elias, chairman; Mrs. John Basten, Mrs. Otto Zoehrer, Mrs. Herbert Siemer, Mrs. Albert Mastin and Mrs. Matthew Spireng.

Hummingbirds have taken to traveling our school bus. Last Thursday there was some excitement while Mr. Blanchard and Mr. Collins freed the bird before the kindergarten children entered the bus.

Mrs. M. Jansen's seventh grade has formed two clubs meeting on Friday afternoons. The boys have a model club and are making model airplanes, boats, and cars, some of which were on display on parent's night. The girls have a craft club and are weaving pot-holders from jersey loops and making rick-rack jewelry.

Grade 8B enjoyed so much the book "Born to Trot" that they pooled their pennies and nickels and bought the book for their school library, entering all their names on the fly leaf. This is a special since the school also purchased books for the class libraries.

Grade 4 had an interesting Indian exhibit. Many relics were brought in and displayed, among them an Apache drum from New Mexico and basket and bead work from the Indian display at the Syracuse Fair. The children have learned an Indian song, drawn Indian symbols and emblems, written stories and made scrap books.

The 6th grade made a splendid effort in presenting, three times in one afternoon, the play "A Day in No-Read Castle" given in connection with the book fair.

Oldfield Widow Dies

Beverly Hills, Calif., Nov. 7 (AP)—Mrs. Bessie Oldfield, widow of early day auto racer Barney Oldfield, died yesterday after suffering a stroke last week. She was married twice to Oldfield, first in 1905, when she attended him as a nurse after he was injured in a race. They were divorced and Oldfield married Mrs. Huda Rae Braden. The latter couple were divorced in 1945 and Oldfield remarried his first wife. He died here in 1946.

Guns Speak Loudest and Fastest in

WILD BILL HICKOK

The lightning-fast firing of Wild Bill Hickok's gun always meant that the West was rid of another trigger-happy bad-man. Marshal Hickok's guns became the symbol of the law in the West, where the sound of a shot spoke louder than the rap of a gavel. Don't miss a single episode in the dramatic story-strip account of the life of Wild Bill Hickok.

Beginning Nov. 9 in The Freeman

Briefly Told

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP)—The joint legislative committee on health insurance plans has retained the Columbia University School of Public Health and Administration Medicine for research and technical assistance.

Republican Sen. George R. Metcalf of Auburn, chairman, announced yesterday that the committee and the school had signed a contract. He said committee members were confident the school could help "in devising ways to provide health insurance for the millions of men and women in New York state who lack this protection."

Worcester, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP)—Mrs. Alice G. Moxley of Oneonta died in a nursing home yesterday. She would have been 101 Dec. 13. Her husband, Emory, died in 1946. She was born in Harpersville, Delaware county.

Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP)—Union College received $568,869 in gifts and additions to endowment funds during the year ended last June 30, bringing its total assets to a record $19,217,791. The college reported Saturday that its assets were $851,906 more than the previous record, set in 1953-54.

Burnt Hills, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP)—A grade crossing was blocked for more than four hours yesterday when eight cars of a 122-car New York Central freight train jumped the Boston and Maine Railroad tracks near this Saratoga county village. No one was injured.

A spokesman for the railroad at Mechanicsville said the 81st car of the train heading from Dewitt to Mechanicsville bounced along the ties for almost two miles, hit a switch and pulled seven other cars off the track.

The New York Central uses the tracks between Rotterdam Junction and the Mechanicsville yards.

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP)—A campaign began here today, aimed at transferring dangerous firearms from Ithaca homes to the bottom of nearby Cayuga Lake.

Police agencies, supported by veterans and safety groups declared this "gun amnesty week". Citizens have been asked to turn in firearms for dumping in the lake.

Police Chief William Simmers reported that some citizens had "jumped the gun" and already had turned in a shotgun and a .38-caliber revolver.

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP)—Solomon Davis yesterday frightened a man out of his (Davis') shoes.

Davis spotted his favorite pair, which had disappeared from his apartment Friday, on the feet of a stranger. He gave chase. The man ran. The shoes didn't fit well and the stranger ran right out of them as he made his getaway. Still missing was $4 worth of groceries which disappeared at the same time.

Shokan

Shokan, Nov. 5—Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Elmendorf of Santa Rosa, Calif., were Shokan callers recently in the course of a vacation visit with relatives in Kingston. Tracy one of several children of Mr. and Mrs Wilson Elmendorf, lived as a boy on the family farm not far from the present village of Ashokan.

Mrs. John Valland of the reservoir road has rented an apartment in her house to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Paice who with their two small children have moved here from Michigan. Paice has employment at the new IBM plant.

Maude Bosworth, well known Esopus antiques collector, and her friend Mrs. M. Nuries, were recent callers in the hub of the reservoir country.

Mr. and Mrs. William O'Reilly and two children have moved from Connecticut to North Dakota where O'Reilly, formerly a member of the University of Connecticut faculty, has a teaching position. Mrs. O'Reilly before marriage was Jean Carpenter of Shokan and Richmond Hill, L. I.

Wedding anniversaries on Tuesday, Nov. 8, include Henry and Mary (Weeks) Oakley, Marbletown couple who reside on the old Oakley homestead in the hills north of Stone Ridge. The couple were married, 1941, at Ashokan.

Mr. and Mrs. George Green, Woodstock residents for many years, were local callers last week.

Halloween pranks Monday night were mild compared to those staged here on other similar occasions; there was no soaping of windows in the village center, and about the only moveable item missing from the scene Tuesday morning was a heavy wagon wheel, which had been rolled across the road from the antique shop grounds and buried in a heap of leaves.

Delta Fromer of Kingston and cousin, Mina Simpson of Hurley, called on Shokan friends recently. The two women are granddaughters of Albert and Jemima (Winne) Elmendorf whose farm home was at the site of the Spencer Jones residence here.

Atoms, Food

MARBLETOWN CENTRAL —The October PTF meeting was well attended. The banner which is won by the room having the greatest per cent of parents present was awarded to Mrs. Osterhoudt's 8th grade room. Room mothers were appointed. Before the meeting parents visited the classrooms and conferred with teachers. The book fair was in progress before and after the meeting.

Proceeds from the book fair were approximately $65. This will be added to the fund for shades, drapes or venetian blinds to darken one room for the showing of slides or movie film. The class of '54 started the fund with a donation of $80. Although the children have worked hard, they still need help since it will cost about $250 to equip one room.

The eighth grade English classes who sponsor thh book fair, wish to thank everyone who helped to make the fair a success. They wish especially to thank the parent committee: Mrs. Cloyd Elias, chairman; Mrs. John Basten, Mrs. Otto Zoehrer, Mrs. Herbert Siemer, Mrs. Albert Mastin and Mrs. Matthew Spireng.

Hummingbirds have taken to traveling our school bus. Last Thursday there was some excitement while Mr. Blanchard and Mr. Collins freed the bird before the kindergarten children entered the bus.

Mrs. M. Jansen's seventh grade has formed two clubs meeting on Friday afternoons. The boys have a model club and are making model airplanes, boats, and cars, some of which were on display on parent's night. The girls have a craft club and are weaving pot-holders from jersey loops and making rick-rack jewelry.

Grade 8B enjoyed so much the book "Born to Trot" that they pooled their pennies and nickels and bought the book for their school library, entering all their names on the fly leaf. This is a special since the school also purchased books for the class libraries.

Grade 4 had an interesting Indian exhibit. Many relics were brought in and displayed, among them an Apache drum from New Mexico and basket and bead work from the Indian display at the Syracuse Fair. The children have learned an Indian song, drawn Indian symbols and emblems, written stories and made scrap books.

The 6th grade made a splendid effort in presenting, three times in one afternoon, the play "A Day in No-Read Castle" given in connection with the book fair.

Oldfield Widow Dies

Beverly Hills, Calif., Nov. 7 (AP) —Mrs. Bessie Oldfield, widow of early day auto racer Barney Oldfield, died yesterday after suffering a stroke last week. She was married twice to Oldfield, first in 1905, when she attended him as a nurse after he was injured in a race. They were divorced and Oldfield married Mrs. Huda Rae Braden. The latter couple were divorced in 1945 and Oldfield remarried his first wife. He died here in 1946.

Guns Speak Loudest and Fastest in

WILD BILL HICKOK

The lightning-fast firing of Wild Bill Hickok's gun always meant that the West was rid of another trigger-happy badman. Marshal Hickok's guns became the symbol of the law in the West, where the sound of a shot spoke louder than the rap of a gavel. Don't miss a single episode in the dramatic story-strip account of the life of Wild Bill Hickok.

Beginning Nov. 9 in The Freeman

Briefly Told

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP) — The joint legislative committee on health insurance plans has retained the Columbia University School of Public Health and Administration Medicine for research and technical assistance.

Republican Sen. George R. Metcalf of Auburn, chairman, announced yesterday that the committee and the school had signed a contract. He said committee members were confident the school could help "in devising ways to provide health insurance for the millions of men and women in New York state who lack this protection."

Worcester, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP)— Mrs. Alice G. Moxley of Oneonta died in a nursing home yesterday. She would have been 101 Dec. 13. Her husband, Emory, died in 1946. She was born in Harpersville, Delaware county.

Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP) —Union College received $568,869 in gifts and additions to endowment funds during the year ended last June 30, bringing its total assets to a record $19,217,791. The college reported Saturday that its assets were $851,906 more than the previous record, set in 1953-54.

Burnt Hills, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP) —A grade crossing was blocked for more than four hours yesterday when eight cars of a 122-car New York Central freight train jumped the Boston and Maine Railroad tracks near this Saratoga county village. No one was injured.

A spokesman for the railroad at Mechanicsville said the 81st car of the train heading from Dewitt to Mechanicsville bounced along the ties for almost two miles, hit a switch and pulled seven other cars off the track.

The New York Central uses the tracks between Rotterdam Junction and the Mechanicsville yards.

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP) — A campaign began here today, aimed at transferring dangerous firearms from Ithaca homes to the bottom of nearby Cayuga Lake.

Police agencies, supported by veterans and safety groups declared this "gun amnesty week". Citizens have been asked to turn in firearms for dumping in the lake.

Police Chief William Simmers reported that some citizens had "jumped the gun" and already had turned in a shotgun and a .38-caliber revolver.

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP)— Solomon Davis yesterday frightened a man out of his (Davis') shoes.

Davis spotted his favorite pair, which had disappeared from his apartment Friday, on the feet of a stranger. He gave chase. The man ran. The shoes didn't fit well and the stranger ran right out of them as he made his getaway. Still missing was $4 worth of groceries which disappeared at the same time.

Shokan

Shokan, Nov. 5—Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Elmendorf of Santa Rosa, Calif., were Shokan callers recently in the course of a vacation visit with relatives in Kingston. Tracy one of several children of Mr. and Mrs Wilson Elmendorf, lived as a boy on the family farm not far from the present village of Ashokan.

Mrs. John Valland of the reservoir road has rented an apartment in her house to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Paice who with their two small children have moved here from Michigan. Paice has employment at the new IBM plant.

Maude Bosworth, well known Esopus antiques collector, and her friend, Mrs. M. Nuries, were recent callers in the hub of the reservoir country.

Mr. and Mrs. William O'Reilly and two children have moved from Connecticut to North Dakota where O'Reilly, formerly a member of the University of Connecticut faculty, has a teaching position. Mrs. O'Reilly before marriage was Jean Carpenter of Shokan and Richmond Hill, L. I.

Wedding anniversaries on Tuesday, Nov. 8, include Henry and Mary (Weeks) Oakley, Marbletown couple who reside on the old Oakley homestead in the hills north of Stone Ridge. The couple were married, 1941, at Ashokan.

Mr. and Mrs. George Green, Woodstock residents for many years, were local callers last week.

Halloween pranks Monday night were mild compared to those staged here on other similar occasions; there was no soaping of windows in the village center, and about the only moveable item missing from the scene Tuesday morning was a heavy wagon wheel, which had been rolled across the road from the antique shop grounds and buried in a heap of leaves.

Need Is Stressed For Highway Links

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 7 (AP)—The need for extension of the New Jersey Turnpike to link with the New York Thruway is indicated in a preliminary engineering report now under study by the Turnpike authority.

In a weekend statement, authority chairman Paul L. Troast said the study was prepared with a basic assumption that the Garden State Parkway also would extend to the New York state line. The Parkway is making a similar extension study.

The northern terminus of the Turnpike is at Ridgefield Park, while that of the Garden State Parkway, New Jersey's other superhighway, is at Paramus.

"As projected in the preliminary report," Troast said the alignment for the Turnpike extension "would be in the general vicinity of Rt. 9W starting at Ridgefield Park."

"While it is indicated in the preliminary report that a six-lane highway would be necessary as far as Rt. 4, and four lanes north of that highway, further study may indicate the need for six lanes throughout its entire length."

Troast said that such an extension of the Turnpike wouldn't compete with the 'proposed northern extension of the Garden State Parkway to the west . . ."

The proposed construction would require approval of the state legislature, Troast said, and would be discussed with officials of state Bergen county, and of the N. Y. Thruway.

California Has Most Real Estate Agents

New York, Nov. 7 (AP)—California leads the nation in the number of licensed real estate brokers or salesmen for its population, a survey presented to the National Assn. of Real Estate Boards disclosed today.

California has 1 broker or salesman for every 95 residents. Next is Florida with 1 per 157 residents, and third is Colorado with 1 for every 182 residents.

The state with the most residents for every real estate licensee is Illinois, with 1 salesman or broker for every 3,234 persons.

The figures were cited in a report at the association's 48th annual convention by William F. Swanson, director of the Nebraska Real Estate Commission.

In 40 states, the District of Columbia and Hawaii there is a total of 313,525 licensees, he said. The omitted states either have no license laws or just recently passed them.

Thinks Warren Will Oppose Stevenson

Atlanta, Nov. 7 (AP)—Sen. Russell (D.-Ga.) believes Adlai Stevenson will be the nation's next President and thinks Chief Justice Earl Warren the "best bet" for the Republican nomination.

The Georgia senator discussed national politics during an interview on Atlanta television Station WSB-TV's "Press Gallery" program yesterday.

Russell said he thought "President Eisenhower might ask Warren to run for the nomination" and expressed the belief the chief justice "would be very susceptible to a draft."

Warren would be a much stronger candidate than Vice President Richard Nixon, said Russell. But the Democrats can beat either one of them "if we keep together and don't do something foolish at the convention," he said.

Would Drop Complaint

Hollywood, Nov. 7 (AP)—Actress Jil Jarmyn's attorney said she would like to drop her request for a battery complaint against red-haired Susan Hayward stemming from a clothes brush bopping incident in the bedroom of Actor Don (Red Ryder) Barry. Lawyer Saul Ross said his 23-year-old blonde client telephoned him yesterday to say, "after all, her children might get dragged into this." She apparently referred to Miss Hayward's twin sons, objects of custody litigation between the 34-year-old actress and her ex-husband, actor Jess Barker. Dep. City Atty. C. R. Powers Jr., has set Nov. 1 for a hearing on Miss Jarmyn's battery complaint request.

Townsend at Work

Brussels, Belgium, Nov. 7 (AP)—Group Captain Peter Townsend resumed his work as air attache at the British Embassy today after a holiday which saw the end of his romance with Princess Margaret. He arrived with British Ambassador Sir George Labouchere in the ambassador's Rolls Royce. He had been staying the weekend at the ambassador's residence. Townsend arrived by air from Britain at Le Touquet Airport, France, on Friday—and newsmen and photographers had lost all sight of him since.

Bank Robbery

Hebron, Ind., Nov. 7 (AP)—The Citizens Bank of Hebron was robbed of about $3,000 today by a man and woman who held cashier Robert McGinley captive overnight and kept him as a hostage when they fled. One report was that one of McGinley's three daughters also was held as a hostage. Police said the couple, described as in their 20s and armed with pistols, forced their way into McGinley's home Sunday evening. They took McGinley in his own car to the bank at opening time today and emptied the cash drawers.

Possible Sabotage

Longmont, Colo., Nov. 7 (AP)—"Possibility of sabotage" is being checked and investigators have found "some things that appear unusual," a federal official said last night of a United Air Lines crash that killed 44 persons. "There's nothing outstanding," said James N. Peyton, chief of the Civil Aeronautics Board's investigation division in declining to specify what appeared unusual. "But they do appear out of the ordinary.

Hoover Touches Points Of 81 Years' Service

New York, Nov. 7 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover chatted for an hour about his life and times yesterday in a nation-wide television broadcast.

The interview, filmed last summer by NBC, touched the highpoints of the 81-year-old Hoover's life, from his modest start to his successful career as a mining engineer, his international relief activitjes, the Presidency and his recent service as head of a federal commission on government reorganization.

Commenting on his refusal ever to accept for his own use any salary for government or relief work, Hoover said:

"I don't say this in disparagement of men accepting salaries from the government, beause most of our officials must have them to live.

"But it happened that I had prospered in my profession at a time when the income tax was only one per cent. I was able to save a competence, and I felt that I owed to my country a debt that was unpayable and I had no right to ask her to pay me."

Farmers Differ

Hutchinson, Kan., Nov. 7 (AP)—Top-ranking farm leaders of Kansas and Missouri differed today on the question of whether farmers should reduce production further as a means of boosting their prices. But both agreed in statements prepared for a Senate Agriculture Committee hearing that agriculture is in trouble because of the 4-year decline in prices and a shrinkage of their markets. President W. I. Boone, of the Kansas Farm Bureau Federation, who said the Kansas wheat farmer is in a "bad position," urged a plan under which the government would make payments to farmers to take more of their land out of crops until surpluses can be reduced. The committee is touring farming regions seeking grower ideas on how to put agriculture in a better economic position.

Teamsters Vote Contract

Utica, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP)—The AFL Teamsters Union says 12 of its 13 locals in upstate New York have ratified a new three-year contract providing for graduated pay increases and other benefits to about 15,000 truck drivers. Rocco F. DePerna of Utica, chairman of the union's negotiating committee, said the Rochester local had rejected the contract. But he said that had resulted from a "misunderstanding" he said he expected would be worked out in a meeting between the local and the statewide negotiating committee. The new pay scales will reach $2.38 an hour for local and city drivers and $2.15 for over-the-road drivers in the third year of the contract. The intermediate steps were not disclosed.

4 Dead in Crash

Seoul, Korea, Nov. 7 (AP)—A U. S. Army pilot and three Polish members of the Neutral Nations Truce Supervisory Commission were killed today in a plane crash, caused by snow flurries and low visibility, 30 miles north of Kunsan, a western Korean port. Names were withheld.

400 Auto Workers Vote to Form Their Own Union

Detroit, Nov. 7 (AP)—A group of 400 dissatisfied skilled trades workers in the CIO United Auto workers union voted yesterday to apply to the National Labor Relations Board for independent union status under the name of the Society of Skilled Trades.

The society claims a membership of 50,000 in six southern Michigan counties. It was formed as a result of the craftsmen's discontent with recently negotiated contracts between the auto manufacturers and the UAW.

Spokesmen for the society have said members feel they were short-changed in the bargaining talks in favor of hourly rated production workers.

"THE ONLY SOLUTION to our problem lies in a separate union with power to negotiate contracts peculiar to our needs," Lamont Haverkate, acting society president, told yesterday's meeting.

"It is understandable why we are short-changed in the UAW contracts," Haverkate declared.

"The UAW is a democratic organization and subject to majority rule," he said. We are in the minority and the UAW leaders are compelled to follow the dictates of the majority. We have only 250,000 skilled workers in the UAW's over-all membership of 2,500,000 (M)."

The skilled tradesmen include die sinkers, tool makers, pattern makers, electricians and other craftsmen. Haverkate said the society may have to wait until the expiration of the present three-year UAW contracts to operate as an independent union.

Explains Spy Case

London, Nov. 7 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan today described the spying of two British diplomats—Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean—as one of the most "painful" stories in the nation's history. Macmillan took the floor of the House of Commons to explain the spy case, described in some British newspapers as a "major scandal of the 20th century." Burgess and Maclean vanished 4½ years ago just as a security net was closing in upon them. They are believed to be living behind the Iron Curtain.

$12-Million Color TV Program Underway

New York, Nov. 7 (AP) — A 12-million-dollar color television expansion program has been announced by the National Broadcasting Co.

Robert P. Sarnoff, NBC Executive Vice President, predicts the expansion facilities will be a "powerful stimulus" to the development of color TV.

The program, announced last night, includes expansion of color TV facilities in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles.

The expansion, Sarnoff said, will enable NBC to double its present TV schedule of 40 hours a month by next fall.

Now Hear This!

New York, Nov. 7 (AP)—Edward Mulstay, 54, returned today from a 20-day ocean voyage to Europe which he said he made accidentally—because he forgot his hearing aid. Mulstay said he boarded the liner America here last Oct. 20, to celebrate the departure of some friends, a couple who had sold their Bronx tavern and were going to retire in Ireland. Mulstay didn't realize when the ship sailed, he said, because he couldn't "hear the warning whistle blow because I left my hearing aid at home." At sea, he cabled back for funds, and went ahead to enjoy the trip anyhow.

Georgi Wary

London, Nov. 7 (AP)—Soviet Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov was careful today not to fall into the same "ideological error" as Foreign Minister Molotov did. Addressing the annual parade in Moscow on the anniversary of the Russian revolution, Zhukov declared the people of the Soviet Union "are marching forward with assurance along the road of the construction of communism in our country."

Need Is Stressed For Highway Links

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 7 (AP)—The need for extension of the New Jersey Turnpike to link with the New York Thruway is indicated in a preliminary engineering report now under study by the Turnpike authority.

400 Auto Workers Vote to Form Their Own Union

Detroit, Nov. 7 (AP)—A group of 400 dissatisfied skilled trades workers in the CIO United Auto workers union voted yesterday to apply to the National Labor Relations Board for independent union status under the name of the Society of Skilled Trades.

The society claims a membership of 50,000 in six southern Michigan counties. It was formed as a result of the craftsmen's discontent with recently negotiated contracts between the auto manufacturers and the UAW.

Spokesmen for the society have said members feel they were short-changed in the bargaining talks in favor of hourly rated production workers.

"THE ONLY SOLUTION to our problem lies in a separate union with power to negotiate contracts peculiar to our needs," Lamont Haverkate, acting society president, told yesterday's meeting.

"It is understandable why we are short-changed in the UAW contracts," Haverkate declared.

"The UAW is a democratic organization and subject to majority rule," he said. We are in the minority and the UAW leaders are compelled to follow the dictates of the majority. We have only 250,000 skilled workers in the UAW's over-all membership of 2,500,000 (M)."

The skilled tradesmen include die sinkers, tool makers, pattern makers, electricians and other craftsmen. Haverkate said the society may have to wait until the expiration of the present three-year UAW contracts to operate as an independent union.

London, Nov. 7 (AP)—Soviet Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov was careful today not to fall into the same "ideological error" as Foreign Minister Molotov did. Addressing the annual parade in Moscow on the anniversary of the Russian revolution, Zhukov declared the people of the Soviet Union "are marching forward with assurance along the road of the construction of communism in our country."

Lawrence High Trounces Kingston Football Squad, 18-0

Cimino's Aerial Arm Paces Long Islanders

By CHUCK NORD
(Freeman Sports Staff)

Pete Cimino, Lawrence High School's pass-happy quarterback, engineered three touchdown drives Saturday at Dietz Stadium as the Long Islanders scored an 18-0 victory over Kingston High's football team.

Cimino fired TD tosses in the first and second periods and had four completions during a fourth-quarter scoring surge.

The triumph was the sixth straight for the Lawrence eleven. For the Kingstonians, it was their third defeat against as many victories, and their second straight game without a score.

THE KINGSTON TEAM defended well against Lawrence's better-than-average ground attack, but was helpless when the Cimino & Co. took to the air.

The visitors completed 15 of 23 passing attempts for a total of 241 yards. On the ground, the winners made 107.

Kingston did little when it had the ball. Bill Burke's Maroons were held to 84 yards rushing and completed only one of 10 passes.

A 41-yard burst through the line by Larry Johnson and a 16-yard pass from Dick Richards to Al Long were the only sizeable KHS gains.

Ronnie Ashdown returned a Lawrence punt from the KHS 35 to Lawrence's 24 early in the game. It proved the deepest penetration for the locals.

A few plays after the return, Cimino intercepted a pass on the LHS five and returned it to the 25.

CIMINO PROCEEDED to riddle the Kingston secondary with aerials as Lawrence moved rapidly downfield. Cimino targeted a nine-yard heave to Terry Farina for the touchdown. Richards broke up a pass try for the point.

Another interception by the ubiquitous Cimino stalled a Kingston march late in the first period. Cimino snatched the ball out of Ashdown's hands on the Lawrence 25. Again the visitors passed their way to a touchdown.

The scoring play, made early in the second quarter, was a nine-yard screen pass from Cimino to Lou Hilton. Cimino's run for the point was halted.

The Larries marched 71 yards for their final score. Cimino's pin-point passing ate up most of the ground. Fullback Sonny Linton bulled over from the 2-yard line for the touchdown. The point try fizzled.

JOHNSON ALMOST got away during the third period. From his flanker's position, he took an inside handoff from Richards, going through the Lawrence line and cutting to the left sideline. He was dragged down from behind on the Lawrence 34.

But Kingston lost the ball on downs, making only two yards in three running plays and failing on a fourth-down pass.

Kingston penetrated to the Lawrence 30 in the fourth period but again lost possession on downs. Lawrence fumbled on first down, KHS recovering on the 37. But the locals bobbled the ball on the first play and Lawrence took over.

SIDELINE STUFF: The Kingston band put on two terrific shows — before the game and at halftime, when it joined in a salute to the area's Boy and Cub Scout movement. The local musicians' performance had plenty of class. The local team was outclassed . . . Several Poughkeepsie High players sat in on the proceedings. Most conspicuous, of course, was big Monty Stickles, who next Saturday will be as great a pass-catching threat as any Lawrence receiver . . . Kingston escaped without a penalty being called against it . . . Joe White showed well in his first try at the quarterback post. Prior to White's appearance in the fourth period, Richards had done all of Kingston's signal-calling.

Natural Coming Up

Rams and Browns Hold Pro Football Leads

Los Angeles Set For Bears Sunday

By RIP WATSON
The Associated Press

Commissioner Bert Bell, whose many duties for the National Football League include making up the schedule, has come up with an authentic "natural."

The commissioner had no way of foreseeing it, when he drew up the schedule long before the season, but he's got the Los Angeles Rams Western Conference leaders, down to play Chicago's rampaging Bears next Sunday. The Rams, sparked by a new backfield combination, rallied in the second half to defeat San Francisco 27-14 yesterday and hold their conference lead.

But they'll have to go all out next Sunday to hang onto it against the big, bad Bears, who crushed Green Bay 52-31 yesterday for their fourth successive victory in an awesome comback following a slow start. The Bears' 4-3 mark, shared by Baltimore, leaves them one game behind Los Angeles' 5-2.

THE EASTERN Conference "race," meanwhile, became more like a Cleveland romp as the Browns, paced by George Ratterman, rallied in the second half for a 24-14 victory over New York and Washington slapped down Philadelphia 34-21. Washington's 4-3 record leaves the 'Skins tied with Pittsburgh, which bowed to the Chicago Cardinals 27-13 Saturday night. Both trail Cleveland by two games with five to play.

Baltimore fell out of a Western Conference first-place with Los Angeles Saturday night as Detroit hung up its first victory of the year by a 24-14 count.

With his team trailing 14-3 at the half, Ram coach Sid Gillman gambled by sending out a backfield that included both 226-pound Tank Younger and Larry Morris, a converted, 210-pound linebacker. The beef trust paid off by grinding out a 93-yard march good for a touchdown, scored by Younger from two yards out. Then San Francisco quarterback Y. A. Tittle, who had pitched to Carroll Hardy and Hugh McElhenny for the 49ers' first half scores, came up with some strategy that was unusual even in the NFL, where daring calls are common place.

DEEP IN SAN Francisco territory, Tittle elected to pass and Los Angeles' Andy Robustelli grabbed it on the 10-yard line for the touchdown that put the Rams ahead to stay. A crowd of 85,302, largest in the league this season, roared its approval as the Rams clinched the championship of the Pacific Coast (they already had beaten San Francisco in the season's opener).

Statistics told the story in the Bears' triumph, which was a chilling reminder of their famed 73-0 rout of Washington in the 1940 championship playoff. It was far worse than the score indicates, for the Bears led by 45-3 early in the fourth quarter before allowing four Green Bay touchdowns.

Ratterman emerged from the long shadow cast by Otto Graham to lead the Browns to victory after the Giants got off to a 14-3 halftime lead.

Graham, taken out after suffering a head injury in the second quarter, returned to the bench in the second half, but he wasn't needed. Ratterman, probably the best second string quarterback anywhere, passed to Ray Renfro for one touchdown, to Pete Brewster for the score that put Cleveland ahead and wrapped it up with a touchdown of his own on a four-yard jaunt around end.

McClinton's Kickoff Runback Sparks Fourth Win

Highland High School's players turned in their best performance of the campaign Saturday at New Paltz, edging a favored Wappingers Falls football team 14-13, for their fourth win.

The Highlanders were a decided underdog prior to the game. Frank Hamblet's eleven had lost 27-7 to Arlington, a team which Wappingers had licked by 13-0.

But Esau McClinton's 84-yard runback of the opening kickoff for a touchdown got HHS off to a flying start. Highland never trailed in the scoring, which was confined to the first two periods of play.

McCLINTON, a shifty halfback, took the kickoff on his 14-yard line and headed straight up the field. He broke loose on the 40 and had clear sailing the rest of the way. John Gersch made the extra point on a run.

Wappingers bounced back to tie the score, marching 60 yards in 14 plays. The scoring maneuver was a two-yard line buck by halfback Jack Sidote. John Scianna ran for the point.

The see-saw scoring continued as Highland retaliated for another TD. Fullback John Valentino ripped 35 yards for the six-pointer. Gersch passed to Bobby Valentino for the point and what proved to be the margin of victory.

Wappingers recovered a fumble on the Highland 40 and scored a few plays later.

Fran DiDomizio, 120-pound Falls quarterback, set up the touchdown with a 29-yard scamper to the HHS one. Scianna bulled over from that point. But Sidote was stopped on the extra point running attempt.

Play during the second half was largely confined between the 30-yard lines. Neither club made much of a threat in the mud.

DAVE MACKEY, Highland's rough-and-ready guard, again led the defensive contingent. Mackey nailed the Falls quarterback more than once before he could hand off the ball.

Beacon Hands Newburgh Fifth Grid Loss, 12-0

Newburgh Free Academy absorbed its fifth football loss of the season Saturday at Beacon. The Goldbacks were crushed beneath Beacon's bruising ground game, going down to a 12-0 defeat.

Beacon traveled 32 yards for a first-period touchdown and drove 55 for a third-quarter score.

Newburgh's attack was nil. The Goldbacks made only three first downs, netted 30 yards rushing and were minus seven in two pass completions.

Beacon bulldozed for a net of 264 on the ground and didn't even bother to pass the slippery pigskin.

Newburgh was forced to punt after the opening kickoff, but Al Beccaccio's boot traveled only eight yards from the line of scrimmage.

BEACON RECOVERED on the NFA 32 and scored in six plays. Lou Amoroso, a 220-pound sophomore fullback, rammed across from the 11. Amoroso was stopped on a run for the point.

Beacon scored in eight plays after returning the second-half kickoff to their 45. Bob Schegel ran across from the 10. A run for the point failed.

HEIGHT OF ACTION—Players rise to the occasion as they battle for possession of the ball in soccer match between Wales and England in Cardiff, Wales. The Welshmen won, 2-1.

The shock and embarrassment suffered by members of the ritzy Deepdale, L. I. golf club when it was revealed their annual $45,000 Calcutta was rigged and a phony it still reverberating around the golf world.

The bizarre development at Deepdale certainly must stand as the game's worst scandal, comparable to the Black Sox scandal in baseball.

An alien golfer, William Roberts, received an invitation to the Deepdale tournament. Who invited him still remains the $64,000 question in the big puzzle.

Roberts went a step further. When a young Massachusetts golfer named Robert Vitale, who was supposed to be Roberts' partner said he would not be able to play, Mr. Roberts simply got himself another partner who used Vitale's name.

The phony "Mr. Vitale" was a 3-handicap player who used a 17 handicap in the $45,000. Between them Mr. Roberts and his "partner" compiled ridiculous best-ball rounds of 57 and 58 to win the 36-hole event by six shots. First place paid nearly $4000.

Deepdale is a plush Long Island layout which numbered President Eisenhower among its membership when Ike was president of Columbia University. Bing Crosby is a regular member and yard for yard its sleek fairways are trod by the wealthiest players in golf.

The big questions: Who invited Roberts? How did Roberts get away with ringing in a phony? Why weren't the handicaps checked? The Deepdale crowd, from the president down to the lowly 40-handicap members are stewing in their bourbons trying to come up with the answers.

But as Larry Robinson of the World-Telegram, who broke the scandal into print, remarked:

"The mystery of Deepdale's 'Black Calcutta,' with its imposter, its phony handicaps, its negligence and incredible naivete on the part of the promoters may have a salutary effect on golf.

"It brings attention to the devious things which can happen when the smart money guys start putting up too much. Maybe it will help to eliminate these oversize Calcuttas, which have become an unsavory aspect of modern golf."

At Las Vegas where the annual visit of the touring pros touches off a terrific Calcutta, the jackpot hit $165,000 last year. One at Greenbier, which is Sam Snead's home at White Sulphur Springs, reached $145,000. Las Vegas promoters are confidently predicting a $250,000 melon for the 1956 event.

Deepdale will solve the Mystery in due time. Already it has sought to erase the shame by asking lucky ticket holders to donate their share to charity. Some have indicated a willingness to do so, others haven't. That was to be expected. As one non-winner explained with brutal objectivity, "nobody has offered to return my donation."

Deepdale will solve the riddle in due time, but criminal prosecution of Mr. Roberts and his phony partner is highly debatable. Calcuttas aren't legal, period.

Ulster county has been singularly free of any such shenanigans. What Calcuttas have been promoted here have been on the modest side and were supervised with caution. That is no guarantee it couldn't happen if local clubs go overboard.

Golf stands to lose heavily by such unsavory incidents as Deepdale's "Black Calcutta."

Golf is a game that should be policed by every player who loves it. Everyone should be interested in keeping it at as high a standard as possible. Chiseling and cheating to make a sly dollar doesn't fit—and think of example to our youngsters who tomorrow will be the backbone of our game.

Bowl Picture Hazy; Michigan Loss Joker

BY ED WILKS
By The Associated Press

The bowl selectors, who shudda stood in bed for all they learned last Saturday, take another look at the somewhat curdled cream of the hopefuls this Saturday as college football takes a crack at determining conference champions.

At least six major bowl berths are open, with the Cotton, Sugar and Gator bowl committees still unsure who they'll wind up with. And after Illinois bounced Michigan from the unbeaten-untied ranks 25-6 last Saturday, the Rose Bowl can't print tickets yet, either.

Time was when it looked like Michigan vs. UCLA at Pasadena. The Uclans still are going strong after shelling College of Pacific 34-0 in a non-league game Saturday, but now Michigan State, beaten only by Michigan, has poked into the Big Ten picture. It looks like the Big Ten choice hinges on the Nov. 19 showdown between Ohio State and Michigan.

OHIO STATE, the current leader, is ineligible to return to the Rose Bowl even if it repeats as Big Ten champ. With Michigan playing weak sister Indiana this weekend, Michigan State has to smack Minnesota and hope for an Ohio State victory next week since the Spartans play one less game than Michigan.

Maryland, teamed with Oklahoma and West Virginia as the last of the major unbeaten-and-untied teams, can settle a bowl and title "question" Saturday by beating Clemson. Actually, there's little question the Terps, who made Louisiana State their 13th straight victim last weekend 13-0, can take the Clemsons, the Atlantic Coast Conference title and the Orange Bowl berth in one easy sweep.

Oklahoma fills the other half of the Orange Bowl bill, after being awarded the Big Seven Conference crown before the season even opened. Nebraska is the lone "threat" to the Sooners and the Huskers may be shucked by Colorado this week while Oklahoma makes Iowa State its 27th straight victim. Nebraska beat Iowa State 10-7 while Oklahoma was blanking Missouri 20-0 last Saturday.

WEST VIRGINIA comes in for another look by the bowl selectors Saturday against Pitt. The Mountaineers won their third straight Southern Conference crown last weekend, but may have left the selectors skeptical in their mere 13-7 decision over George Washington.

Georgia Tech and Tennessee gave the selectors little help by playing a 7-7 tie. Auburn and Mississippi State didn't prove much either, although Auburn won 27-26. Only Kentucky provided an obvious decision—the Wildcats were whipped by Vanderbilt 34-0.

Chuck Congdon, Tacoma, Wash., pro who taught U. S. Amateur golf champion Pat Lesser for seven years, won the Canadian Open in 1948.

Natural Coming Up

Rams and Browns Hold Pro Football Leads

Los Angeles Set For Bears Sunday

By RIP WATSON
The Associated Press

Commissioner Bert Bell, whose many duties for the National Football League include making up the schedule, has come up with an authentic "natural."

The commissioner had no way of foreseeing it, when he drew up the schedule long before the season, but he's got the Los Angeles Rams Western Conference leaders, down to play Chicago's rampaging Bears next Sunday. The Rams, sparked by a new backfield combination, rallied in the second half to defeat San Francisco 27-14 yesterday and hold their conference lead.

But they'll have to go all out next Sunday to hang onto it against the big, bad Bears, who crushed Green Bay 52-31 yesterday for their fourth successive victory in an awesome comback following a slow start. The Bears' 4-3 mark, shared by Baltimore, leaves them one game behind Los Angeles' 5-2.

THE EASTERN Conference "race," meanwhile, became more like a Cleveland romp as the Browns, paced by George Ratterman, rallied in the second half for a 24-14 victory over New York and Washington slapped down Philadelphia 34-21. Washington's 4-3 record leaves the 'Skins tied with Pittsburgh, which bowed to the Chicago Cardinals 27-13 Saturday night. Both trail Cleveland by two games with five to play.

Baltimore fell out of a Western Conference first-place with Los Angeles Saturday night as Detroit hung up its first victory of the year by a 24-14 count.

With his team trailing 14-3 at the half, Ram coach Sid Gillman gambled by sending out a backfield that included both 226-pound Tank Younger and Larry Morris, a converted, 210-pound linebacker. The beef trust paid off by grinding out a 93-yard march good for a touchdown, scored by Younger from two yards out. Then San Francisco quarterback Y. A. Tittle, who had pitched to Carroll Hardy and Hugh McElhenny for the 49ers' first half scores, came up with some strategy that was unusual even in the NFL, where daring calls are common place.

DEEP IN SAN Francisco territory, Tittle elected to pass and Los Angeles' Andy Robustelli grabbed it on the 10-yard line for the touchdown that put the Rams ahead to stay. A crowd of 85,302, largest in the league this season, roared its approval as the Rams clinched the championship of the Pacific Coast (they already had beaten San Francisco in the season's opener).

Statistics told the story in the Bears' triumph, which was a chilling reminder of their famed 73-0 rout of Washington in the 1940 championship playoff. It was far worse than the score indicates, for the Bears led by 45-3 early in the fourth quarter before allowing four Green Bay touchdowns.

Ratterman emerged from the long shadow cast by Otto Graham to lead the Browns to victory after the Giants got off to a 14-3 halftime lead.

Graham, taken out after suffering a head injury in the second quarter, returned to the bench in the second half, but he wasn't needed. Ratterman, probably the best second string quarterback anywhere, passed to Ray Renfro for one touchdown, to Pete Brewster for the score that put Cleveland ahead and wrapped it up with a touchdown of his own on a four-yard jaunt around end.

McClinton's Kickoff Runback Sparks Fourth Win

Highland High School's players turned in their best performance of the campaign Saturday at New Paltz, edging a favored Wappingers Falls football team 14-13, for their fourth win.

The Highlanders were a decided underdog prior to the game. Frank Hamblet's eleven had lost 27-7 to Arlington, a team which Wappingers had licked by 13-0.

But Esau McClinton's 84-yard runback of the opening kickoff for a touchdown got HHS off to a flying start. Highland never trailed in the scoring, which was confined to the first two periods of play.

McCLINTON, a shifty halfback, took the kickoff on his 14-yard line and headed straight up the field. He broke loose on the 40 and had clear sailing the rest of the way. John Gersch made the extra point on a run.

Wappingers bounced back to tie the score, marching 60 yards in 14 plays. The scoring maneuver was a two-yard line buck by halfback Jack Sidote. John Scianna ran for the point.

The see-saw scoring continued as Highland retaliated for another TD. Fullback John Valentino ripped 35 yards for the six-pointer. Gersch passed to Bobby Valentino for the point and what proved to be the margin of victory.

Wappingers recovered a fumble on the Highland 40 and scored a few plays later.

Fran DiDomizio, 120-pound Falls quarterback, set up the touchdown with a 29-yard scamper to the HHS one. Scianna bulled over from that point. But Sidote was stopped on the extra point running attempt.

Play during the second half was largely confined between the 30-yard lines. Neither club made much of a threat in the mud.

DAVE MACKEY, Highland's rough-and-ready guard, again led the defensive contingent. Mackey nailed the Falls quarterback more than once before he could hand off the ball.

Beacon Hands Newburgh Fifth Grid Loss, 12-0

Newburgh Free Academy absorbed its fifth football loss of the season Saturday at Beacon. The Goldbacks were crushed beneath Beacon's bruising ground game, going down to a 12-0 defeat.

Beacon traveled 32 yards for a first-period touchdown and drove 55 for a third-quarter score.

Newburgh's attack was nil. The Goldbacks made only three first downs, netted 30 yards rushing and were minus seven in two pass completions.

Beacon bulldozed for a net of 264 on the ground and didn't even bother to pass the slippery pigskin.

Newburgh was forced to punt after the opening kickoff, but Al Beccaccio's boot traveled only eight yards from the line of scrimmage.

BEACON RECOVERED on the NFA 32 and scored in six plays. Lou Amoroso, a 220-pound sophomore fullback, rammed across from the 11. Amoroso was stopped on a run for the point.

HEIGHT OF ACTION—Players rise to the occasion as they battle for possession of the ball in soccer match between Wales and England in Cardiff, Wales. The Welshmen won, 2-1.

The shock and embarrassment suffered by members of the ritzy Deepdale, L. I. golf club when it was revealed their annual $45,000 Calcutta was rigged and a phony it still reverberating around the golf world.

The bizarre development at Deepdale certainly must stand as the game's worst scandal, comparable to the Black Sox scandal in baseball.

An alien golfer, William Roberts, received an invitation to the Deepdale tournament. Who invited him still remains the $64,000 question in the big puzzle.

Roberts went a step further. When a young Massachusetts golfer named Robert Vitale, who was supposed to be Roberts' partner said he would not be able to play, Mr. Roberts simply got himself another partner who used Vitale's name.

The phony "Mr. Vitale" was a 3-handicap player who used a 17 handicap in the $45,000. Between them Mr. Roberts and his "partner" compiled ridiculous best-ball rounds of 57 and 58 to win the 36-hole event by six shots. First place paid nearly $4000.

Deepdale is a plush Long Island layout which numbered President Eisenhower among its membership when Ike was president of Columbia University. Bing Crosby is a regular member and yard for yard its sleek fairways are trod by the wealthiest players in golf.

The big questions: Who invited Roberts? How did Roberts get away with ringing in a phony? Why weren't the handicaps checked? The Deepdale crowd, from the president down to the lowly 40-handicap members are stewing in their bourbons trying to come up with the answers.

But as Larry Robinson of the World-Telegram, who broke the scandal into print, remarked:

"The mystery of Deepdale's 'Black Calcutta,' with its imposter, its phony handicaps, its negligence and incredible naivete on the part of the promoters may have a salutary effect on golf.

"It brings attention to the devious things which can happen when the smart money guys start putting up too much. Maybe it will help to eliminate these oversize Calcuttas, which have become an unsavory aspect of modern golf."

At Las Vegas where the annual visit of the touring pros touches off a terrific Calcutta, the jackpot hit $165,000 last year. One at Greenbier, which is Sam Snead's home at White Sulphur Springs, reached $145,000. Las Vegas promoters are confidently predicting a $250,000 melon for the 1956 event.

Deepdale will solve the Mystery in due time. Already it has sought to erase the shame by asking lucky ticket holders to donate their share to charity. Some have indicated a willingness to do so, others haven't. That was to be expected. As one non-winner explained with brutal objectivity, "nobody has offered to return my donation."

Deepdale will solve the riddle in due time, but criminal prosecution of Mr. Roberts and his phony partner is highly debatable. Calcuttas aren't legal, period.

Ulster county has been singularly free of any such shenanigans. What Calcuttas have been promoted here have been on the modest side and were supervised with caution. That is no guarantee it couldn't happen if local clubs go overboard.

Golf stands to lose heavily by such unsavory incidents as Deepdale's "Black Calcutta."

Golf is a game that should be policed by every player who loves it. Everyone should be interested in keeping it at as high a standard as possible. Chiseling and cheating to make a sly dollar doesn't fit—and think of example to our youngsters who tomorrow will be the backbone of our game.

Bowl Picture Hazy; Michigan Loss Joker

BY ED WILKS
By The Associated Press

The bowl selectors, who shudda stood in bed for all they learned last Saturday, take another look at the somewhat curdled cream of the hopefuls this Saturday as college football takes a crack at determining conference champions.

At least six major bowl berths are open, with the Cotton, Sugar and Gator bowl committees still unsure who they'll wind up with. And after Illinois bounced Michigan from the unbeaten-untied ranks 25-6 last Saturday, the Rose Bowl can't print tickets yet, either.

Time was when it looked like Michigan vs. UCLA at Pasadena. The Uclans still are going strong after shelling College of Pacific 34-0 in a non-league game Saturday, but now Michigan State, beaten only by Michigan, has poked into the Big Ten picture. It looks like the Big Ten choice hinges on the Nov. 19 showdown between Ohio State and Michigan.

OHIO STATE, the current leader, is ineligible to return to the Rose Bowl even if it repeats as Big Ten champ. With Michigan playing weak sister Indiana this weekend, Michigan State has to smack Minnesota and hope for an Ohio State victory next week since the Spartans play one less game than Michigan.

Maryland, teamed with Oklahoma and West Virginia as the last of the major unbeaten-and-untied teams, can settle a bowl and title "question" Saturday by beating Clemson. Actually, there's little question the Terps, who made Louisiana State their 13th straight victim last weekend 13-0, can take the Clemsons, the Atlantic Coast Conference title and the Orange Bowl berth in one easy sweep.

Oklahoma fills the other half of the Orange Bowl bill, after being awarded the Big Seven Conference crown before the season even opened. Nebraska is the lone "threat" to the Sooners and the Huskers may be shucked by Colorado this week while Oklahoma makes Iowa State its 27th straight victim. Nebraska beat Iowa State 10-7 while Oklahoma was blanking Missouri 20-0 last Saturday.

WEST VIRGINIA comes in for another look by the bowl selectors Saturday against Pitt. The Mountaineers won their third straight Southern Conference crown last weekend, but may have left the selectors skeptical in their mere 13-7 decision over George Washington.

Georgia Tech and Tennessee gave the selectors little help by playing a 7-7 tie. Auburn and Mississippi State didn't prove much either, although Auburn won 27-26. Only Kentucky provided an obvious decision—the Wildcats were whipped by Vanderbilt 34-0.

Chuck Congdon, Tacoma, Wash., pro who taught U. S. Amateur golf champion Pat Lesser for seven years, won the Canadian Open in 1948.

Former Athletes, Coaches, Officials Honor Kias

DUSO Directors, Heap Plaudits on Kingston's AD

More than 125 former Kingston High school athletes and members of the Hudson valley coaching fraternity paid tribute to Coach G. Warren Kias at a testimonial dinner Saturday night at the high school.

Clair Bee, athletic director of New York Military Academy and nationally famous basketball coach of the Long Island University Blackbirds, was the guest speaker.

An array of speakers introduced by toastmaster Dick McCarthy, heaped verbal praise and plaudits on Mr. Basketball of the Hudson valley, who retired from active coaching after 28 years last spring.

BESIDES MR. KIAS, three other members of the DUSO League's "Big Five" of athletic directors were present, C. Everett Stevens of Newburgh Academy, Samuel J. Kalloch of Poughkeepsie High and Al Chase of Port High. The fifth member of the quintet—Jack Hughes of Middletown—was unable to attend because of previous commitments.

Mr. Stevens presented Coach Kias with a gift from the "Big Five." The guest of honor also received a motion picture camera, projector and other equipment from the asembled guests.

MAYOR FRED STANG, taking time out from a hot mayorality race, congratulated Mr. Kias on his many years of service to KHS and his distinguished record on the athletic field.

Louis G. Bruhn, speaking for the Board of Education, hailed Kias as "a real coach, teacher, leader," and a good sport and gentleman over the years.

CLIFF MILLER, KHS principal, praised Kias' fine record and said Kingston High was proud to number him on its faculty.

Coaches Stevens, Kalloch and Chase spoke in glowing terms of Kias' achievements and interspersed their talks with humorous anecdotes.

Charles J. Tiano, Freeman sports editor, who played on Kias' first baseball team at Kingston High, made the presentation of the gift.

DEEPLY MOVED by the sincere tributes, Coach Kias responded with great feeling and emotion. He reminisced about high spots in his career, recalling many thrilling Maroon triumphs and heartbreaking losses.

"I am deeply grateful and highly honored tonight," Kias said. "These gifts I shall use and treasure for the rest of my days. More than that will be the memories of my association with you and this tribute."

Coach Bee said the turnout was a tribute to Coach Kias and proved the high esteem in which he was held by his former athletes and fellow coaches.

The NYMA athletic director told some humorous stories about early professional basketball days and his career at Long Island U. He finished with a strong plea to keep the kids of America active in sports.

Among the personalities introduced by toastmaster McCarthy were members of the Kias Testimonial Committee, among them Andrew Murphy III, chairman; John J. Gilligan, Nate Armstrong, Jack Zaccheo, Mort Gazlay, Tommy Maines and Edwin Bahl.

FROM THE coaching fraternity came George S. "Lanky" Masterson of Newburgh Academy; football coach John Nania of Middletown High; Bob Magill and Buck Gros of the Central Hudson Valley Board of Approved Basketball Officials;

Also, Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson and Principal Walter S. Van Wagenen of Woodstock; Alderman-at-Large Joe Kelly and City Clerk Bernhardt S. Kramer; Roland Allen and Woody Witherwax of Fallsburgh Central; Jack Braun, supervising principal and Al Roberts, athletic director of Ellenville; Ken Somerville of Monticello.

Members of the Board of Education present were Chester Baltz Sr., William Rylance, Robert O'Reilly, Dr. David Klein, Peter Keresman, secretary of the New York State Police Conference and Lou Schafer, YMCA general director;

Present from Kias' own staff were football coach Bill Burke, Russ Cunningham, and Bill Hurley.

Rangers Tie Montreal For Hockey Lead

By The Associated Press

New York's Rangers are rapidly showing National Hockey League fans their fast start was no flash in the pan.

The surprising New Yorkers, who have started fast in other years and then quietly folded, hung up their seventh victory of the young campaign last night with a 4-2 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks to tie the league leading Montreal Canadiens in victories. The Canadiens had to settle for a 3-3 tie with the Boston Bruins last night.

In three games, played in four nights on the road, the Rangers have turned in two victories and a tie to strengthen their hold on second place.

THE NEW YORK victory left the Rangers three points back of Montreal and three in front of Chicago, Toronto and Boston, which are tied for third. The Toronto Maple Leafs bowed to Detroit 4-1 as the Red Wings came up with their first victory in their last nine games.

The hustling Rangers' line of Dean Prentice, Andy Bathgate and Larry Popein paced the New Yorkers to their third triumph of the year over the Hawks. Each member picked up a goal.

Big Jean Beliveau's goal with 81 seconds to play pulled the Canadiens into a tie with the Bruins before a crowd of 13,634—largest at the Boston Garden in nearly two years. Before Beliveau scored, the Bruins had forged ahead 3-2 in the final period on goals by Leo Labine and Doug Mohns.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By JOE STETSON
Dog Editor

"Down! Down!" John was emphasizing his commands with an impatient expression and an angry mood. "I've just fed you," he muttered, "what more do you want?"

Happening to overhear him as I approached his dog run, I could not help but feel sorry for the dogs who got plenty of food, but whose communion with the man they thought God stopped right there.

It did not make me wonder what more a dog wants—I know that. It made me wonder how many dog owners do not realize that a dog wants the respect and affection of his master more than anything else.

The dog that jumps, pushes, barks—makes a nuisance of himself for attention—will sit quivering with grateful eyes pleading for understanding if he is but given a few strokes on the head and a few words. He may want more and look for it, but his spirit is burning bright when fed by the fuel of affection.

Sometimes I wonder about the questionably fed dog of the man who has less of life's essentials than he needs for himself. But when I've turned the thought over a few times I come to feel that I'd rather be the dog who lives with a gnarled hand on his head and a gruff voice in his ear than John's dogs with their bellies full of food.

The truth of the matter is that we don't have to starve our dogs to make them happy, nor do we have to encourage bad manners. We can still feed them well and keep them under proper discipline yet give them that moment now and then to feel secure in the realization that they belong—that their adoration is not entirely one-sided—that they are wanted as much as they want, needed as much as they need.

John was not a hard-hearted guy. In fact he was just a tired guy at the end of a trying day's work. What he didn't realize was that his fatigue would drop from him like a clock—that his springs would quietly unwind, his tension vanish did he but rub an ear, scratch a back, pat a side and mumble nothings to the ones that understand these mumblings like no others.

Clair Bee, athletic director of New York Military Academy and nationally famous basketball coach of the Long Island University Blackbirds, was the guest speaker.

An array of speakers introduced by toastmaster Dick McCarthy, heaped verbal praise and plaudits on Mr. Basketball of the Hudson valley, who retired from active coaching after 28 years last spring.

BESIDES MR. KIAS, three other members of the DUSO League's "Big Five" of athletic directors were present, C. Everett Stevens of Newburgh Academy, Samuel J. Kalloch of Poughkeepsie High and Al Chase of Port High. The fifth member of the quintet—Jack Hughes of Middletown—was unable to attend because of previous commitments.

Mr. Stevens presented Coach Kias with a gift from the "Big Five." The guest of honor also received a motion picture camera, projector and other equipment from the asembled guests.

MAYOR FRED STANG, taking time out from a hot mayorality race, congratulated Mr. Kias on his many years of service to KHS and his distinguished record on the athletic field.

Louis G. Bruhn, speaking for the Board of Education, hailed Kias as "a real coach, teacher, leader," and a good sport and gentleman over the years.

CLIFF MILLER, KHS principal, praised Kias' fine record and said Kingston High was proud to number him on its faculty.

Coaches Stevens, Kalloch and Chase spoke in glowing terms of Kias' achievements and interspersed their talks with humorous anecdotes.

Charles J. Tiano, Freeman sports editor, who played on Kias' first baseball team at Kingston High, made the presentation of the gift.

DEEPLY MOVED by the sincere tributes, Coach Kias responded with great feeling and emotion. He reminisced about high spots in his career, recalling many thrilling Maroon triumphs and heartbreaking losses.

"I am deeply grateful and highly honored tonight," Kias said. "These gifts I shall use and treasure for the rest of my days. More than that will be the memorries of my association with you and this tribute."

Coach Bee said the turnout was a tribute to Coach Kias and proved the high esteem in which he was held by his former athletes and fellow coaches.

The NYMA athletic director told some humorous stories about early professional basketball days and his career at Long Island U. He finished with a strong plea to keep the kids of America active in sports.

Among the personalities introduced by toastmaster McCarthy were members of the Kias Testimonial Committee, among them Andrew Murphy III, chairman; John J. Gilligan, Nate Armstrong, Jack Zaccheo, Mort Gazlay, Tommy Maines and Edwin Bahl.

FROM THE coaching fraternity came George S. "Lanky" Masterson of Newburgh Academy; football coach John Nania of Middletown High; Bob Magill and Buck Gros of the Central Hudson Valley Board of Approved Basketball Officials;

Also, Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson and Principal Walter S. Van Wagenen of Woodstock; Alderman-at-Large Joe Kelly and City Clerk Bernhardt S. Kramer; Roland Allen and Woody Witherwax of Fallsburgh Central; Jack Braun, supervising principal and Al Roberts, athletic director of Ellenville; Ken Somerville of Monticello.

Members of the Board of Education present were Chester Baltz Sr., William Rylance, Robert O'Reilly, Dr. David Klein, Peter Keresman, secretary of the New York State Police Conference and Lou Schafer, YMCA general director;

Present from Kias' own staff were football coach Bill Burke, Russ Cunningham, and Bill Hurley.

New Financial Plan Readied For Pony League

Buffalo, Nov. 7 (AP)—Directors of the Class D Pony League have approved a new plan to obtain operating funds for the league.

League President Vince Mc Namara said the directors yesterday ruled that each team must contribute $500 before the league's annual meeting Nov. 20 or forfeit their franchises.

In addition, he said, the directors drew up a new dues-payment plan.

Each club will be required to pay $200 a week for ten weeks and the remainder of their dues within 30 days of the completion of the 10-week period. Heretofore each club paid $125 weekly throughout the season.

Rangers Tie Montreal For Hockey Lead

By The Associated Press

New York's Rangers are rapidly showing National Hockey League fans their fast start was no flash in the pan.

The surprising New Yorkers, who have started fast in other years and then quietly folded, hung up their seventh victory of the young campaign last night with a 4-2 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks to tie the league leading Montreal Canadiens in victories. The Canadiens had to settle for a 3-3 tie with the Boston Bruins last night.

In three games, played in four nights on the road, the Rangers have turned in two victories and a tie to strengthen their hold on second place.

THE NEW YORK victory left the Rangers three points back of Montreal and three in front of Chicago, Toronto and Boston, which are tied for third. The Toronto Maple Leafs bowed to Detroit 4-1 as the Red Wings came up with their first victory in their last nine games.

The hustling Rangers' line of Dean Prentice, Andy Bathgate and Larry Popein paced the New Yorkers to their third triumph of the year over the Hawks. Each member picked up a goal.

Big Jean Beliveau's goal with 81 seconds to play pulled the Canadiens into a tie with the Bruins before a crowd of 13,634 —largest at the Boston Garden in nearly two years. Before Beliveau scored, the Bruins had forged ahead 3-2 in the final period on goals by Leo Labine and Doug Mohns.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By JOE STETSON
Dog Editor

"Down! Down!" John was emphasizing his commands with an impatient expression and an angry mood. "I've just fed you," he muttered, "what more do you want?"

Happening to overhear him as I approached his dog run, I could not help but feel sorry for the dogs who got plenty of food, but whose communion with the man they thought God stopped right there.

It did not make me wonder what more a dog wants—I know that. It made me wonder how many dog owners do not realize that a dog wants the respect and affection of his master more than anything else.

The dog that jumps, pushes, barks—makes a nuisance of himself for attention—will sit quivering with grateful eyes pleading for understanding if he is but given a few strokes on the head and a few words. He may want more and look for it, but his spirit is burning bright when fed by the fuel of affection.

Sometimes I wonder about the questionably fed dog of the man who has less of life's essentials than he needs for himself. But when I've turned the thought over a few times I come to feel that I'd rather be the dog who lives with a gnarled hand on his head and a gruff voice in his ear than John's dogs with their bellies full of food.

The truth of the matter is that we don't have to starve our dogs to make them happy, nor do we have to encourage bad manners. We can still feed them well and keep them under proper discipline yet give them that moment now and then to feel secure in the realization that they belong—that their adoration is not entirely one-sided—that they are wanted as much as they want, needed as much as they need.

John was not a hard-hearted guy. In fact he was just a tired guy at the end of a trying day's work. What he didn't realize was that his fatigue would drop from him like a clock—that his springs would quietly unwind, his tension vanish did he but rub an ear, scratch a back, pat a side and mumble nothings to the ones that understand these mumblings like no others.

Wehrmacht Vols

Bonn, Germany, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Defense Ministry announced today that 172,000 West Germans have volunteered for the new Wehrmacht. Almost 8,000 sent in applications in October. The volunteers included 30,252 who have never seen military service. A big percentage of the total will be ineligible for physical or other reasons. Some estimates of the ineligibles run to 40 per cent. The Defense Ministry will need 150,000 volunteers to form training cadres for the projected 500,000-man Wehrmacht. But under present legislation, the ministry can put only 6,000 volunteers into uniform before March 31, 1956. The ministry also announced the first air base for the Wehrmacht will be at Noervenich, about 20 miles from Bonn.

Sealed proposals will be received and considered by the undersigned School District Clerk of Union Free School District No. 4 of the Towns of Hurley and Ulster, Ulster County, New York, at the Schoolhouse, in Hurley, New York, in said School District (P.O. Address: Hurley, New York), at 3:30 o'clock P.M., Eastern Standard Time, on the 15th day of November, 1955, at which time and place the bids will be opened, for the purchase at not less than par and accrued interest of $185,000 School District (Serial) Bonds, 1955, of said School District, of the denomination of $1,000 each, dated October 1, 1955, maturing $7,000 on October 1, 1956, $8,000 on October 1, 1957, and $10,000 on October 1 in each of the years 1958 to 1974, both inclusive, and bearing interest at a rate not exceeding five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually April 1 and October 1. Principal and interest of said bonds are payable in lawful money of the United States of America at State of New York National Bank, in Kingston, New York. Bonds will be in bearer form with coupons attached and may be converted into fully registered bonds and will be valid and legally binding general obligations of said School District, all the taxable real property within which will be subject to the levy of ad valorem taxes to pay said bonds and interest thereon, without limitation as to rate or amount.

The State Constitution requires the School District to pledge its faith and credit for the payment of the principal of the bonds and the interest thereon, and to make annual appropriations for the amounts required for the payment of such interest and the redemption of the bonds. The State Constitution also provides that if at any time the appropriating authorities fail to make the required appropriations for the annual debt service on the bonds and certain other obligations of the School District, a sufficient sum shall be set apart from the first revenues thereafter received and shall be applied for such purposes; also, that the fiscal officer of the School District may be required to set apart and apply such revenues as aforesaid at the suit of any holder of such obligations.

Each bid must be for all of said $185,000 bonds and state a single rate of interest therefor. Unless all bids are rejected, the award will be made to the bidder complying with the terms of sale and offering to purchase said bonds at the lowest rate of interest, not exceeding the rate above specified, stated in a multiple of one-quarter or one-tenth of one per centum per annum, without reference to premium, provided, however, that if two or more bidders offer to purchase said bonds at the same lowest rate of interest, then such award will be made to the bidder offering the highest premium. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids and any bid not complying with this Notice of Sale will be rejected. Each bid must be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to the undersigned School District Clerk, and should be marked on the outside "Proposal for Bonds" and must be accompanied with a certified or cashier's check drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company to the order of said School District for $3,700 as a good faith deposit to secure the School District against any loss resulting from the failure of the bidder to comply with the terms of his bid. No interest will be allowed on the amount of the good faith deposit. Said bonds are issued pursuant to the Constitution and statutes of the State of New York, including among others, the Education Law and the Local Finance Law, for the construction and equipment of an addition to the existing school building in said School District and the acquisition of certain land as an additional school site in said District.

In the event that prior to the delivery of the bonds, the income received by private holders from bonds of the same type and character shall be taxable by the terms of any Federal income tax law, the successful bidder may, at his election, be relieved of his obligations under the contract to purchase the bonds, and in such case, the deposit accompanying his bid will be returned.

Said bonds will be delivered at New York, New York, or at such other place as may be agreed with the purchaser about December 5, 1955.

The approving opinion of Messrs. Vandewater, Sykes, Heckler & Galloway, Attorneys of New York City, will be furnished to the purchaser without cost. The usual no-litigation statement will be included in the closing papers.

The population of the School District is estimated to be 1800. The Debt Statement to be filed pursuant to Section 109.00 of the Local Finance Law, in connection with the sale of the bonds herein described, prepared as of October 26th, 1955, will show the full valuation of real property subject to taxation by the School District to be $3,390,214.29, its debt limit to be $339,021.43, and its bonded indebtedness, including the bonds herein described to be $185,000.00. Bond anticipation notes in the amount of $122,000.00 heretofore issued in anticipation of the sale of such bonds have not been included in computing such indebtedness. Such notes will be redeemed from the proceeds of the bonds. A detailed report of essential facts will be furnished to any interested bidder upon request.

Dated: Hurley, New York, November 1st, 1955.

Wehrmacht Vols

Bonn, Germany, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Defense Ministry announced today that 172,000 West Germans have volunteered for the new Wehrmacht. Almost 8,000 sent in applications in October. The volunteers included 30,252 who have never seen military service. A big percentage of the total will be ineligible for physical or other reasons. Some estimates of the ineligibles run to 40 per cent. The Defense Ministry will need 150,000 volunteers to form training cadres for the projected 500,000-man Wehrmacht. But under present legislation, the ministry can put only 6,000 volunteers into uniform before March 31, 1956. The ministry also announced the first air base for the Wehrmacht will be at Noervenich, about 20 miles from Bonn.

LEGAL NOTICE

$185,000
UNION FREE SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 4 OF THE TOWNS OF HURLEY AND ULSTER, ULSTER COUNTY, NEW YORK SCHOOL DISTRICT (SERIAL) BONDS, 1955
NOTICE OF SALE

Sealed proposals will be received and considered by the undersigned School District Clerk of Union Free School District No. 4 of the Towns of Hurley and Ulster, Ulster County, New York, at the Schoolhouse, in Hurley, New York, in said School District (P.O. Address: Hurley, New York), at 3:30 o'clock P.M., Eastern Standard Time, on the 15th day of November, 1955, at which time and place the bids will be opened, for the purchase at not less than par and accrued interest of $185,000 School District (Serial) Bonds, 1955, of said School District, of the denomination of $1,000 each, dated October 1, 1955, maturing $7,000 on October 1, 1956, $8,000 on October 1, 1957, and $10,000 on October 1 in each of the years 1958 to 1974, both inclusive, and bearing interest at a rate not exceeding five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually April 1 and October 1. Principal and interest of said bonds are payable in lawful money of the United States of America at State of New York National Bank, in Kingston, New York. Bonds will be in bearer form with coupons attached and may be converted into fully registered bonds and will be valid and legally binding general obligations of said School District, all the taxable real property within which will be subject to the levy of ad valorem taxes to pay said bonds and interest thereon, without limitation as to rate or amount.

The State Constitution requires the School District to pledge its faith and credit for the payment of the principal of the bonds and the interest thereon, and to make annual appropriations for the amounts required for the payment of such interest and the redemption of the bonds. The State Constitution also provides that if at any time the appropriating authorities fail to make the required appropriations for the annual debt service on the bonds and certain other obligations of the School District, a sufficient sum shall be set apart from the first revenues thereafter received and shall be applied for such purposes; also, that the fiscal officer of the School District may be required to set apart and apply such revenues as aforesaid at the suit of any holder of such obligations.

Each bid must be for all of said $185,000 bonds and state a single rate of interest therefor. Unless all bids are rejected, the award will be made to the bidder complying with the terms of sale and offering to purchase said bonds at the lowest rate of interest, not exceeding the rate above specified, stated in a multiple of one-quarter or one-tenth of one per centum per annum, without reference to premium, provided, however, that if two or more bidders offer to purchase said bonds at the same lowest rate of interest, then such award will be made to the bidder offering the highest premium. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids and any bid not complying with this Notice of Sale will be rejected. Each bid must be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to the undersigned School District Clerk, and should be marked on the outside "Proposal for Bonds" and must be accompanied with a certified or cashier's check drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company to the order of said School District for $3,700 as a good faith deposit to secure the School District against any loss resulting from the failure of the bidder to comply with the terms of his bid. No interest will be allowed on the amount of the good faith deposit. Said bonds are issued pursuant to the Constitution and statutes of the State of New York, including among others, the Education Law and the Local Finance Law, for the construction and equipment of an addition to the existing school building in said School District and the acquisition of certain land as an additional school site in said District.

In the event that prior to the delivery of the bonds, the income received by private holders from bonds of the same type and character shall be taxable by the terms of any Federal income tax law, the successful bidder may, at his election, be relieved of his obligations under the contract to purchase the bonds, and in such case, the deposit accompanying his bid will be returned.

Said bonds will be delivered at New York, New York, or at such other place as may be agreed with the purchaser about December 5, 1955.

The approving opinion of Messrs. Vandewater, Sykes, Heckler & Galloway, Attorneys of New York City, will be furnished to the purchaser without cost. The usual no-litigation statement will be included in the closing papers.

The population of the School District is estimated to be 1800. The Debt Statement to be filed pursuant to Section 109.00 of the Local Finance Law, in connection with the sale of the bonds herein described, prepared as of October 26th, 1955, will show the full valuation of real property subject to taxation by the School District to be $3,390,214.29, its debt limit to be $339,021.43, and its bonded indebtedness, including the bonds herein described to be $185,000.00. Bond anticipation notes in the amount of $122,000.00 heretofore issued in anticipation of the sale of such bonds have not been included in computing such indebtedness. Such notes will be redeemed from the proceeds of the bonds. A detailed report of essential facts will be furnished to any interested bidder upon request.

Dated: Hurley, New York, November 1st, 1955.

The lowest temperature recorded on The Freeman thermometer during the night was 35 degrees. The highest figure recorded up to noon today was 50 degrees.

Weather Forecast

NEW YORK CITY and vicinity: Cloudy this afternoon, tonight and Tuesday with chance of some rain tonight and early Tuesday. Temperatures this afternoon 50 to 55 degrees and lowest tonight 35 to 40 in the city and along the coast and 30 to 35 inland with highest Tuesday in the 40s. COLD.

INTERIOR OF EASTERN New York: Partly cloudy today; high ranging from in the 40s to the mid-50s. Cloudy tonight and tomorrow with snow flurries in the north and west and some rain or snow in the southeast portion. Colder tomorrow and in the north and west portions tonight. In 1790, the allotment for pay and rations on U. S. Coast Guard revenue cutters was nine cents per day.

Stresses Peace Theme

London, Nov. 7 (AP)—Soviet Defense Minister Georgi K. Zhukov declared today the Soviet Union is striving "to strengthen peaceful cooperation and confidence between states by deeds and not by words." Marshal Zhukov addressed the traditional parade of massed troops in Red Square in Moscow on the 38th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution. Moscow Radio broadcast the account of the observance. The announcer said a heavy bomber, which he described as an "airborne battleship" escorted by jet fighters, led a flight of planes across the sky. "In its foreign policy, the Soviet government is guided by Lenin's principle of peaceful coexistence and continues to struggle for the cause of peace," Zhukov said.

Postpone Ceremony

New York, Nov. 7 (AP)—The swearing in of John P. McGrath as the New York member of the Bi-State Waterfront Commission has been postponed "until later this week," Gov. Averell Harriman's office said today. The announcement came from Charles Van Devander, executive assistant to the governor. Van Devander gave no reason for the delay beyond saying "it has just been postponed" until "after Election Day." Harriman's appointment of McGrath, his campaign manager in the race for governor last fall, has stirred considerable controversy. The governor named McGrath after asking Lt. Gen. George P. Hays to submit his resignation.

Pueblo Indians of New Mexico had no domesticated mammal except the dog, and the turkey was their only domesticated fowl.

Captured in Chase

Athens, Pa., Nov. 7 (AP)—An ex-convict wanted for questioning in several southern New York and northern Pennsylvania communities was held without charge today after police arrested him at the end of a four-mile chase. William R. Mack, 34, was to be arraigned today. Patrolman Elmer Beers of Waverly, N. Y., reported that Mack's car crashed into a pole after being pursued at speeds Beers said reached 100 miles an hour. Mack turned into a parking lot here and the car crashed into a pole. New York state police said Mack, whose home was listed as Wellsboro, was on parole from the Pennsylvania state penitentiary at Graterford.

Prize Pupil

Moscow, Nov. 7 (AP)—"Quit putting me on the spot," a 13-year-old American boy told a Moscow English class the other day. The slang left the students in the dark, but the teacher got it. John Benton, son of former Senator William Benton (D.-Conn.) has been attending Moscow's Anglo-American school one hour daily the past week and has one more week to go. His parents entered him in the Russian-operated classes when they came here for a month's stay. The teacher took to asking John's confirmation when she corrected the pupil's English, and that led to his complaint that he was being put on the spot.

Honor Airlift Men

Berlin, Nov. 7 (AP)—Timothy J. Murphy, commander in chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW), laid a wreath today at a memorial to those killed in the 1948-49 Berlin airlift. The airlift, which broke the Russian blockade of West Berlin, cost the lives of 31 U. S. airmen, 39 British airmen, and 5 Germans.
